Senator John Glenn Accepts Top Rosemond Campaign Slot

By FREDONIA LEE

U.S. Sen. John Glenn will hold a top position in the Rosemond for Mayor campaign, City Councilman John H. Rosemond announced last week.

Rosemond, after receiving an endorsement from the Democratic senator, said that Glenn will be co-chairman of his campaign committee.

News of Glenn's support and participation in Rosemond's mayoralty efforts as a campaign official came after a Concerned Citizens awards dinner last Thursday where Glenn was keynote speaker.

"Sen. Glenn will play an active and meaningful role as co-chairman of the election committee," Rosemond said, adding that the senator will tape commercials and attend meetings in addition to other duties.

Glenn was named "man of the year" by the Concerned Citizens group and was presented a leadership award for outstanding political achievement.

Other awardees were State Sen. William Bowen (D-Cincinnati), Milan March-Marsh, president of the Ohio AFL-CIO, and Warren K. Smith, secretary-treasurer, Ohio AFL-CIO.

Already political observers are predicting that Rosemond, a Democrat, will win the November race against incumbent Republican Mayor Tom Moody if Columbus voters cast their ballots along party lines.

Moreover, these observers are quick to say that because Rosemond is a black man, the white electorate might vote for Moody simply for racial reasons.

However, Glenn's endorsement points to a cohesive and unified effort of the Democratic Party to support Rosemond as he carries the party's banner into the mayor's race.

"Senator Glenn's endorsement shows that we are moving in a direction to include all people and all elements of the Democratic Party," Rosemond explained.

Rosemond said that he is organizing a broad base of local support that already includes many Boycott.

In answer to inquiries, the Rev. Cameron L. Jackson revealed Tuesday that the bulk of the estimated $1300 collected at the June 7 "Kahiki Incident" Rally is still intact and unexpended.

Jackson, pastor of the First AME Zion Church, 873 Bryden Rd., where the rally was held, and spokesperson for the People's Coalition for Justice, which is pressing for official action against repeated incidents of police brutality, said that a small portion—no more than a few hundred dollars—was committed to the expenses of launching the "Day of Abstinence

At the request of the People's Coalition, Operation PUSH is holding the money," Jackson stated.

Jackson, who is also president of the Columbus PUSH, said that the bulk of the money is expected to be expended on legal expenses incurred by Joanne Johnson, Samuel E. Bryant and Jerome Johnson, in connection with their arrests and alleged beating by Columbus police officers on May 30 after an altercation at the Kahiki Restaurant.

Jackson also indicated that some portion of the fund will be used to help

Council Panel Wields Power Of Civilian Police Review Board

By CYNTHIA DONALDSON

According to City Councilman Charles Mentel, a voice/community relations committee made up of two other Council members and himself is already performing most of the recommendations proposed by a committee of the Columbus Area Chamber of Commerce last year that said more citizen input was needed in the handling of citizen complaints involving alleged excessive use of force and discourtesy by police officers.

The Police/Community Relations Committee of City Council, made up of Mentel, Daniel Schoedinger and Charles G. (Jerry) Hammond, has the power to set up a civilian-manned complaint intake office, to investigate complaints of alleged police brutality and can evaluate and recommend upon their findings, in the

Burglars Picking On Area Churches

Churches of various denominations and located in scattered areas of the city, continued to be targets for sleazy night-crawlers, more commonly known as burglars, last week.

Three churches hit on consecutive nights last week include the Old Presbyterian, 1101 Bryden Rd., June 17, Travelers Rest Baptist, 203 Cleveland Ave., June 18, and Columbus Baptist Temple, 2956 Cleveland Ave., June 19, police reported.

Charles Ragan, 58, 1101 E. 19th Ave., reporting for Old Presbyterian, said entrance was gained by smashing a window with a brick. No loss was reported.

Black Elected Democrats Take Stand On Brutality

Black Elected Democrats of Ohio (BEDO) voiced their strong dissatisfaction with the recent occurrence of police brutality in Columbus last week.

The response from BEDO came as a result of the "brutal beatings given to three Columbus black residents, Samuel Bryant, JoAnn Johnson and Jerome Johnson by police officers Edward Morgan and Robert Stout of the Columbus Police Dept."

BEDO was strongly critical of the Fraternal Order of Police (FOP) for tolerating such inhumane conduct by its members. BEDO said, "The FOP by refusing to do anything about brutality or alleged brutality perpetrated by its members sanctions and therefore encourages such conduct."

BEDO said, "It is obvious from viewing those arrested that they were beaten unnecessarily and that the degree of force used was brutal."

BEDO concluded by saying that, "The kinds of malicious attacks by the Columbus Police Dept. will not be tolerated and we join with other concerned individuals and organizations in working to alleviate this problem in Columbus and in the state of Ohio."

'A LIVING TESTIMONY'

NBL President Burrell Cites George Berry's Contributions

An estimated 200 businessmen and community leaders turned out at the John E. Scales Building, 620 Alum Creek Dr., Wednesday evening, June 18, to pay tribute to George C. Berry, former proprietor of the Chesapeake Snack Bar on Mt. Vernon Ave.

Berry, 76, recently sold the business which he had owned and operated since 1926. The new owner, Carl E. Wiley, was among the organizers of the banquet testimonial.

Berry, whose reluctant decision to retire was blamed on failing health, now lives in Marion, O., with his wife, Anita.

The assemblage, which included public officials, representatives of fraternal and business organizations with which

Berry has been affiliated, civic and religious leaders and local merchants, heard Dr. Berkeley G. Burrell, president of the National Business League (NBL), the featured speaker, call Berry "a living testimony to the wisdom that truth and justice are not gifts, but must be secured through the efforts of those desiring life's greatest ideals."

At a press conference preceding the dinner, Burrell credited Berry, who was instrumental in founding the Columbus Business League, the local chapter of NBL, with encouraging him (Burrell) to accept the national presidency.

"Chance has never yet satisfied the hopes of a suffering people. Only through action, self-reliance and a vision of the future has George Berry seen and shared the light

PRIMARY ANALYSIS

Vote Count Shows Rosemond Can Win ..If..?

By JOHN E. COMBS

Although the official count of ballots cast in the June 3 non-partisan primary election was substantially the same as the unofficial tabulation, it did provide some significant food for thought in the future and dispelled the contention that a black candidate for mayor doesn't have a chance of winning.

As an example, the official figures showed that Councilman John H. Rosemond, in winning the mayoralty nomination and a chance to challenge the reelection of Mayor Tom Moody at the Nov. 4 election, polled 47 percent of the total votes in the 17 mostly black wards, and garnered 53 percent of the votes received by the five Democratic candidates in the mayor's race.

Rosemond, with a total of 19,411 votes of which 13,989, or 72 percent, came from black voting places gained second place in the six-man race, while Moody was the top man with 31,517 ballots.

Moody, as could have been expected, posed no threat to Rosemond in the predominantly 17 black wards. The Republican mayor took 11 percent of the total votes in the 17 wards with about 11 percent of his total vote coming from the 17 wards.

waged an all-out campaign for the black vote. Pfeifer, in ending up in third place, polled a total of 14,968 votes. He received 23 percent of the total votes in the 17 black wards and garnered 26 percent of the total votes split among the five Democratic candidates. The 17 wards gave him 46 percent of his total winning.

Taking into consideration that the other three Democratic candidates fared so poorly in the 17 black wards, it is not difficult to imagine that Rosemond would probably have topped Moody in the total votes had Pfeifer not been in the race.

However, in checking the official vote further, it is significant to note that Rosemond brought up the rear in the six-candidate contest in most of the so-called white wards. As a prime example, the 19th, 20th, 21st and 22nd, gave Rosemond the total sum of 169 votes. While on the other hand, Moody received a combined total of 7103.

The four wards, although historically Republican territory, gave each of the other four Democrats more than twice as many votes as polled by Rosemond.

Forrest Jones, 1810 Morristown Rd., also reported that nothing was gained by breaking into Travelers Rest.

Dorothy Douglas, 18, 3505 Greenwich Ave., Secretary of Baptist Temple, reported the intruders benefitted by the total sum of $3 for their night work.

Other church break-ins during the past two weeks, as reported by police, included, Columbus Freewill Baptist, 49 E. Third St. Willard Rose, 49, 6492 Bertlett Rd., Reynoldsburg, reported the loss of a $175 electric typewriter, an $11 electric clock, a brown leather bag valued at $10.

St. Phillips Episcopal Church, 166 Woodland Ave., reported by Mazie Hill, 52 of 2265 Willamont Ave., the loss of a portable television and property damages caused by breaking the door glass on the Eastside of the church.

Down the street further, Rev. Ozark Range Sr., 46, pastor of Woodland Christian Church, 143 Woodland Ave., reported the loss of $240 in radio and tape player equipment and $15 property damages. Entrance was made via a broken window on the Northside of the church.

Bethel AME, 2021 Cleveland Ave., according to a report by Harry Austin, a Trustee, 1026 Olmstead Ave., the loot consisted of a Bell and Howell sound equipment, 11 blank checks signed by the minister, two Ohio National Bank deposit bags, a microphone and $10.36 in cash. Damages to office equipment was un-estimated, police reported.

Love Zion Baptist, 1459 Madison Ave., as reported by Deacon John Brown, 76, 1178 Bryden Rd., burglars gained an amplifier and a microphone for their labor of breaking a window to gain entrance to the church.

Marantha Baptist, 4663 Trabue Rd., Rev. Robert D. Anthony, the 43 year old pastor reported, that tools valued at $1,180.00 were missing from the garage.

Council Panel Wields Powder...

Chamber of Commerce drew up a list of recommendations in September, 1974, after numerous conferences with the director of public safety, the chief of police and various members of City Council.

One of the recommendations proposed that an alternative to filing complaints with respect to alleged excessive use of force by the police within a police facility was needed. The office would be under the supervision of a civilian appointee and would be located within the structure of city government.

Mentel said such an office is not in existence now but that Council can provide for the funds to operate it.

However, Mentel said before the Kahiki incident, a minor number of complaints—three or four a day—were being made, and that number was not enough to make a complaint intake office operation financially feasible.

Mentel said the civilian-manned office would be placed under the Safety Dept.

Another recommendation by the Chamber of Commerce's committee, that a qualified outside investigator be hired by an outside agency to work with the Bureau of Internal Affairs in carrying out investigations of citizen complaints against police officers, is currently being done by the City Council committee of three, according to Mentel.

Mentel said the committee has been following the events of the Kahiki matter since it happened and has been following other citizen complaints made prior to that incident. The committee has reviewed statements that the police have gathered and they have interviewed witnesses to the Kahiki case, Mentel said. They are now awaiting the final report of Police Chief Earl Burden and will then review it, he continued.

The final recommendation of the Chamber's committee, that there be civilian input with respect to the evaluation of the findings of the joint investigation by the outside investigator and Internal Affairs and that recommendations on the findings be made to the police chief, has not been fully incorporated into the City Council committee.

Mentel said the problem with the formation of a board containing some civilian representation is that the mayor is the only one who can appoint people to the committee.

"And he will pick who he wants," Mentel said. Mentel said while the Council committee has no power over mayoral decisions, its comments, supporting or criticizing executive input, will carry the weight of the

Jones: 'Columbus Need Not Be Another Boston'

By MICKI SELTZER

"Columbus need not be another Boston," NAACP Chief Counsel Nathaniel Jones recently told community leaders at a meeting regarding the Columbus school desegregation suit.

Attention should be given to cities like Pontiac and Kalamazoo, where desegregation is working well, Jones said, rather than Boston, which he called an "aberration" and a "logical extension of chief-executive rhetoric against desegregation and busing."

Emphasizing the need for planning and assertiveness on the part of the community's leadership, Jones said he expects a desegregation order by December or January in Columbus. The suit goes to trial in November.

Once a desegregation order has been issued, he noted, the order goes into effect regardless of pending appeals.

Jones explained why Columbus is unlikely to be judged different from other northern cities which have been ordered to desegregate their school systems.

"What counts" in determining whether the constitution has been violated, Jones said, is not the INTENT of decisions made, but the EFFECTS of those decisions.

When a site for a school is selected, for instance,

Nathaniel Jones... Boston an 'aberration' of the intent of the selection may not have been racist, but the result may be that the school is segregated, if it was foreseeable that the location would result in segregation, then that site selection may violate the constitution.

Location of schools, transportation policies, faculty assignments and feeder patterns are all areas that will get close scrutiny, according to Jones.

If school populations are decreasing in the center city schools while overcrowded conditions are being maintained in the outer city, this is also taken into account, he said.

"The devices of segregation are practically uniform," the experienced civil rights attorney noted,

Vote Count Shows

Rosemond Can Win...

Even in his own ward, the 27th, Rosemond only received 78 votes, more than 900 behind Moody and 26 shy of the lowest vote of the other four candidates.

It is also of the utmost importance to note that outside of the 17 wards which are mostly black and top-heavy Democratic, Rosemond failed to do so well. As an example, his 5,422 votes was just 16 percent of the Democratic vote in the 42 other wards, amounting to 9 percent of the total vote in these wards.

Exploring both the official and the unofficial vote count further, one finds that City Auditor Hugh Dorrian apparently underestimated the affect his run-in with Hilton Carter would have on the black vote.

Dorrian, it is recalled, had said that the harm the Hilton Carter issue would cause him among black voters would be "only minimal" during the campaign.

He believes his strengths lie in the areas of editorials, theatre, movie, and music reviews. A gifted writer, Michael has already co-written several plays. He was the director of a theatre group in college and would like to continue to write plays, poems, books, and magazine articles.

Michael received several job offers around the country but was especially elated when Mr. W.O. Walker offered him a position with this newspaper. "Mr. Walker showed an interest in me as a person," said the newest addition to the staff.

Among his many duties as a staff member of the Columbus Bureau will be reporting and lay-out. Michael believes that writers have a responsibility to the readers to make them want to read their articles. He guarantees that he "will" do this in Columbus. That is a very positive, confident belief from a very determined man.

8 AREA DELEGATES SET FOR NAACP D.C. MEET

Eight members of the Columbus NAACP and possibly several alternates will attend the annual national convention of the organization June 30 through July 4 in Washington, D.C., according to Olan Dunson, president.

Columbus delegates will be Dunson, Carole Tucker, secretary; Albert Stover, treasurer; Hansel Henry, Harry Collins and Barbara Tolber, all members of the executive committee; Rev. Thomas Liggins, chairman of the labor and industry committee; and Robert L. Johnson, a member of the housing committee.

Dunson said about 5,000 delegates are expected to attend the national event.

The national membership drive of the NAACP, operating under the theme - "You Gotta Belong" - will be kicked off at the convention. Dunson said the Columbus chapter kicked off its membership campaign in mid-May, and will continue it along with the national drive.

Dunson said the organization hopes to net a half million new members and the main thrust of the drive will begin Sept. 1 and continue through the fall and winter.

He said the organization also hopes to have two million members by 1980. Today the NAACP has 440,000 members throughout the nation and abroad.

The annual convention will hold workshops addressing the issue of affirmative action, employment, racism, police brutality, housing and the economy and other problems prevalent to black people.

public officeholders and labor unions.

Glenn told the 300 persons attending the banquet that he expects the Senate to pass the new Voting Rights Act in a few weeks. The Voting Rights Act is an important piece of Civil Rights legislation passed in 1965 that guaranteed blacks in the south the right to vote.

Glenn said that the new bill to extend the act will also expand it to include areas outside the South where literacy tests prohibits minority groups from exercising the franchise.

"That we have to extend the Voting Rights Act in 1975 is a tragic commentary on the entrenched power of racism in this country. It means we have need for this legislation to guarantee basic rights insured by the Constitution," Glenn said.

the three alleged victims with personal expenses.

"Volunteers are working with them in making sure that they are helped in whatever way necessary," Jackson said.

Bryant, when informed of Jackson's statements, said: "I sure am glad to hear that."

Bryant said he has been unable to work since the May 30 incident. "What with going to court, going to hearings, and going back and forth to the doctor's and the dentist's, there's just no way Joanne or I could handle a job—especially not a new job where the boss expects to see you everyday," Bryant said.

"We've got rent to pay and a nine-month-old baby to feed," Bryant continued, "so it's good to know there's some kind of help available."

In related developments, Jackson revealed that representatives of the People's Coalition have been in contact with representatives of the Columbus Area Chamber of Commerce.

Jackson said he expects that a meeting will be held in the near future between Coalition and Chamber of Commerce representatives.

The objective of such a meeting, he said, would be to find ways that the local business establishment could use their economic and political leverage to influence the city administration to act positively in the area of police-community relations.

"I think the 'Day of Abstinence' boycott over the Father's Day weekend (June 14-15) had a definite impact," Jackson said, implying that the Chamber of Commerce overtures might have resulted from the community action.

"Not only that, but I think it continues to have impact," Jackson continued, "as many people have simply slacked off in their buying, voluntarily cutting back on patronizing certain businesses since the Day of Abstinence."

As for the campaign to urge cancellation of subscriptions to the Columbus Dispatch daily newspaper, the pastor said:

"It's growing like a snowball with each passing day."

PROJECT '75' EXTENSION OUTLINED BY LES BROWN

"Project '75' Parts III and IV, a continuation of the voter registration/education program initiated by WVVO Program Manager Les Brown for the June 3 primary election, will be kicked off in early July, carrying with them the theme, 'give the brothers a chance,'" according to Brown.

The campaign will be divided into two categories: "Project '75' Part III will be aimed at voter education to generate voter registration, Brown said. Part IV will start about a month before the November 4 general election with the purpose of getting the vote out to elect the two black candidates running for high offices in city government, he continued.

Dr. John H. Rosemond, Democratic candidate for mayor of Columbus and the first black to run for that office in the city, along with Charles G. (Jerry) Hammond, candidate for City Council, are the two "brothers" who Brown said should be given the full support of the black community in order to assure their victories in November.

Brown said one of his goals is to develop a black organization or machine for political power in Columbus. He pointed out the campaign run by City Councilwoman Fran Ryan as one to be emulated.

Top vote getter in the primary, Ryan ran a low-budget campaign and depended on volunteers to spread information about her candidacy, Brown said.

"We've got to go out into the bars and into the community and organize folks," he said. Brown further said that distributors of information such as barbers, beauticians, and social clubs should be enlisted in the organization.

Brown said Part III of "Project '75" will continue political education on WVVO and will discuss issues along with the candidates. However, this time, Brown said, "we will organize a grassroots effort like never seen before."

Brown commended the total black community for its turnout in the primary

School Improvement Group

Plans Summer Workshops

Dr. Charles E. Taylor, convenor of the School Improvement Group, relates that the group will hold a series of workshops over the summer.

A general information workshop on the structure and functioning of the Columbus school system will be held to give parents a better idea of where to go with specific concerns.

Another workshop will be held jointly with the reading department of the Columbus Public Schools to provide parents with information on things they can do to help their children improve their reading skills.

Workshops also will be held with local school improvement groups around specific concerns in the area schools.

No date has been set for the workshops as yet.

Taylor said local school improvement groups have been formed for Pilgrim

Elementary, the Marion-Franklin area and the Cassidy-Mifflin area, and will be formed in other areas.

At a recent meeting of the group, it was reported that the Columbus teacher transfer plan is almost completed, and that there is very little that can be done at this point in time to prevent its completion.

The task, Taylor said, is to do what we can to make it most effective.

The steering committee of the group announced that it will interview school board candidates for the November elections and support those who they believe will make a positive contribution to education.

Taylor a 1973 school board candidate, said he has not yet decided if he will run but is circulating petitions in case he does decide to run.

Phi Delta Kappa Chapter Setting Up Reading Center

The Gamma Alpha Chapter of the national sorority of Phi Delta Kappa is setting up a Reading Center to be housed in the Human Resources Center, 481 Kimball Pl. The center will provide reading materials and equipment to be used for tutoring students during the summer months.

It is an individualized remedial program for underachievers who are functioning at least two grades below expectancy level. Pupils are selected and referred to the program by the counselors of the schools nearest to the center.

Soror Catherine Crandell, principal of Eastgate School, is the chairperson for the reading program. Soror Ruby Comer, the Developmental Disabilities Specialist at the Human Resources Center, secured the facilities at the center and will be the liaison chairperson to assist in the process of completing referrals and contacting parents.

East Students Are To Attend Camp Enterprise

Five East High School juniors have been selected to attend the 1975 Camp Enterprise, a three-day seminar held at the Greenwood Lake Camp, located north of Delaware.

Jon Williams, Maurice Brooks, Michael Smith, Vicki Featherstone and Scott Lucear will be among 135 outstanding students from Franklin County high schools scheduled to attend. Camp Enterprise offers students an opportunity to discuss all aspects of business and the free enterprise system with professional and business leaders.

East Side YM Hosts Party, Dance-A-Thon

East Side YMCA, 130 Woodland Ave., will host a Community Party and "Executive Open Dance-A-Thon" starting at noon Saturday, June 28, and lasting until 10 a.m. Sunday, June 29.

The Community Party is scheduled to begin at 10 p.m. Saturday. The entire facility will be open for card playing, swimming, dancing, chess and other activities. Breakfast is to be served Sunday beginning at 6 a.m.

Clifford Rose, executive director of the Y, said that the party and dance-a-thon are being held as part of the 1975 membership drive of the YMCA and to acquaint the community with the facility and programs offered.

Life In Watts 10 Years After Riots Explored Sunday On TV 4

A comprehensive survey of life today in Watts, a predominantly black section of Los Angeles which was shaken by riots 10 years ago -- and whether promises made by the government after the disturbances were fulfilled -- will be the subject of a one-hour NBC News TV special, titled "A Country Called Watts."

The special, the first news documentary to be produced entirely on location using the minicam, will be colorcast on the NBC Television Network and WLWC TV4 Sunday, June 29, 10-11 p.m.

The program, produced for NBC News by Thomas Tomizawa, with NBC News correspondents Tom Pettit and Gail Christian as on-camera reporters, will explore, from the point of view of those who live in the Watts community, the changes that have taken place there during the years following the riots.

The disturbances took place over a five-day period, Aug. 11-16, 1965. Among those interviewed on the special program will be Marquette Frye, whose arrest in 1965 touched off the riots; Bobby Lavender, who tutored street gangs in how to avoid confrontations with the police; and Ted Watkins, a former trade union official who is head of the Watts Labor Community Action Committee, which specializes in job training and placement for residents of the area.

Producer Tomizawa says the NBC News video tape cameras will record "a unique phenomenon: the politics of poverty; the competition for diminishing local, state and federal funds for the Watts community; urban renewal, which sometimes meant clearance without rebuilding, and the violence and frustration that youths experienced growing up in Watts."

The program will also examine the controversial "Alpha File," a special Los Angeles Police Dept. card file on youths suspected of having a capacity for violence.

"Our studies, talks and observations have led to several conclusions about Watts that will be stated clearly and bluntly," Tomizawa says.

"We found that the people in the Watts community look at what happened in the summer of 1965 as more of a revolt than a riot and that there is a commonly held idea in the community that the programs set up by the government for Watts were only intended to pacify the community rather than further its progress."

The title of Miss U.S. Talented Teen Columbus was topped by 16 year old Valerie Buggs at the Pageant and Revue, held June 8 at the Downtown Sheraton.

Miss Buggs, a senior at South High School and daughter of Mrs. Fannie Simmons, won the honor for her dramatic reading. The contestants voted her as Miss Congeniality and Valerie was also voted Miss Congeniality by her schoolmates.

On June 15, Valerie competed with other queens from Ohio and was first runner up in the state finals, held in Cincinnati. The winner of the state pageant will go to New York on Aug. 1 to compete for the title of Miss U.S. Talented Teen America.

The Columbus pageant was sponsored by Pat Scott, director of Pose Enterprise Models.

James Kenty Named Top Lightweight In Nation

Quarterly ratings of U.S. amateur boxers were released last week by the United States Amateur Boxers and Coaches Association. One hundred and ten amateur boxers in the 11 Olympic weight categories were rated, with Columbus high on the list of honorees.

As a result of the recently concluded National AAU Senior Boxing Championships which were held in Shreveport, La., June 9-14, there were many changes from the last rating period.

Columbus' James Kenty, who successfully defended his lightweight championship in Shreveport, moved back into the No. 1 spot in his weight class in USABCA ratings.

Pete Seward, light welterweight, lost a close decision to Ray Leonard, Palmer Park, Md., in the AAU finals, but remained No. 2 in USBCA scoring.

The other Columbus star was Richard Rozelle, flyweight, who decided to take his opponent to take the top USABCA slot in his division.

As a result of their fine showing at the 88th Annual National AAU Championships, the perennial strong Ohio boxing team won an unprecedented third consecutive National AAU Team Championship, to become the first team in history to win three successive National Team titles.

The Ohio team was made up of five boxers from Columbus, three from Cincinnati and two from Toledo.

Kenty, Rozelle, Seward and Mike Dokes of Akron, heavyweights, were named to the U.S. National team, which leaves for Mannheim, Munich, Germany, on July 1 and returns to the states on July 15.

Kenty and Charles Walker, Mesa, Ariz., were recipients of the outstanding boxer award in the National AAU Championships. They have been recognized by USABCA as outstanding boxers for this rating period.

Dokes, sensational in winning the National AAU heavyweight title, is No. 1 in his division and has all the tools to win a Gold Medal in the 1976 Olympic games.

COLUMBUS SENATE of the National Bowling Association recently paid tribute to Jack Golston, center, for his contributions to the local chapter. The local Senate sponsored a "happy hour" in the popular E. Main St. club to raise funds for the various programs presented to en-

Sports Training Program At East High Is Slated

By MICHAEL HARRIS

If you're young, and have visions of being a top-money sports star or a President's Scholar in the future, there's a possibility that enrolling in the Academics/Athletics Youth Sports Program for the summer can improve your chances of being both.

Program Coordinator Tom Fullove, who formulated the idea for the program four months ago, said that its purpose is to involve youths at the early stages of mental and physical development in the areas of academics and athletics and to motivate the participation of both as a required combination.

Fullove was a local area all-stater and all-American during his high school and college days. More importantly, he was the first black basketball coach at East High. From his experience he has seen too many black athletes who had to "make it or fail" in life because their instructors or counselors did not stress upon them the importance of an education. "None ever put concentration on gearing them for studying. There are so many athletes out there who only know how to carry a football or dribble a basketball. You have to start early with youths or by the time they're in high school it's too late to change them."

The five week program will be available for youths between the ages of 9-12. A 45-minute academic instruction class will then be followed by an hour and 45 minute sports session. The academic session taught by volunteer students from Ohio State, will review basic fundamentals in math, reading and writing, along with an enrichment section in language skills. The sports instruction will cover the basic ground rules, terminology and fundamental elements in football, basketball, soccer, golf, tennis, and track and field.

Instructors will consist of present and former players and staff at Ohio State, along with community leaders involved in the respective sports from their community. The instructors must be qualified to give the youths a positive image of concerned persons depicting not only their athletic ability, but their total overall well-being, according to Fullove. "If we can set the pace for the youths to be involved in the total motivational aspects of academics and athletics, the impact should be monumental and should make people take a second look."

With the usual problems of finances, equipment, and facilities conquered, the program is slated to start July 10th, and continue through July 31 as the last date. The program will be held at East High School every Thursday from 6 to 8:45 p.m.

Participating organizations include the Big Brothers Association; the YMCA; the YWCA; Boys Clubs; and the public. Sign up dates for the program should include the participant's name, address, phone number, and the youth's age.

Applications must be mailed in before July 5 and will be taken on a first come first served basis. Though there is no charge for the program, Fullove stressed that the youths should be serious in obtaining a learning experience from both sections. "If the participant doesn't go to the class sections, he cannot participate in the sports section."

As an added feature, all entrants will receive a T-shirt which will read:

Farmer Brown To Play In All Star Game Saturday

Rich (Farmer) Brown, one of the finest linemen in East High history, is one of the three City League stars to play for the South in the annual Ohio North-South All Star game Saturday, June 29, at 4 p.m. in Ohio Stadium.

Regarded as the best lineman in the City League last year, Brown received still another honor Monday when he was named one of two captains of the South prep grid all stars. The other South captain is Wapkoneta center Tim Burke.

Many schools were after his services. However, Woody Hayes landed him for Ohio State. "He's a great one," according to all his followers.

However, during the course of the 1974-75 football season, Brown's ability was seemingly doubted by many coaches and went unnoticed for awhile. One coach voiced that he didn't believe Brown was as tough as he had heard until he saw him on the field.

Other coaches felt that Brown had been given credit for more tackles than he had made. Statistics at East credited Brown with better than 100 solo tackles in eight games. In support of the team statistics, the Ohio had 20 solo tackles and consequently felt Brown's overall total was much higher than 100.

East has had some great linemen over the years. Men like William (Bill) Willis, Dr. Sol Maggied, Jim Marshall, just to mention a few. Brown takes his place with that trio.

Scott Arnett of Ridge and John Ferree of Northland are the other City Leaguers with the South.

Brown's outstanding performance has earned him selection as an All State linebacker. In addition, Brown walked off with a number of more honors: The Citizen-Journal Union Award, All District, All District linemen of the year, All Metropolitan, All Metropolitan linemen of the year, and many other awards.

Coach Frank Howe of Northland says "Brown is the toughest I've seen in a long, long time." Brown's coach at East, Robert Steel, feels that he has the tools to make it to the pros.

Tickets for Saturday's game are on sale at reduced rates at Big Bear stores in the area. They are also available at Ohio State University ticket office, Berry's, Agler Davidson and Roush Sporting Goods.

ALI'S LAST FIGHT? - Heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali announced this week that he would retire after his July 1 title fight with Joe Bugner. Ali is to receive $2.5 million for his title defense in Kuala Lumpur, capital of Malaysia, and Bugner $600,000. "I've thought about it, I've looked all around, and I'm gonna retire after this fight," the 33 year old Ali said. "I'm worth a couple million in cash, and about three million in property...now I want to go into Muslim Islamic ministry." The fight will be shown live on closed circuit TV Monday, June 30, at 10:30 p.m. at Ohio Theatre. Tickets are now on sale at Vegas Club, 3323 E. Broad St., and will be available day of show.

Vacationing Tanner Sends Letter Home

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Hiram L. Tanner, recently retired Columbus CALL-POST sports editor, penned the following letter on June 18 from Ft. Huachuca where he attended celebration marking the Army's 200th anniversary.)

Hi Boss:

We move on to LA today. Nothing new in Tucson except the following bit of news:

1. Huachuca honors Army: Mrs. Frances (Dyer) Edwards, former RN with Columbus Health Dept. and now living in San Diego, was in Huachuca for the reunion.
2. Tucson NAACP charges police brutality.
3. Tucson's baseball manager Hank Aquirne suspended five days for altercation with umpire. Tucson is in last place in Pacific League.
4. Black Air Force soldier found guilty of first degree murder in shootout with plainclothes policeman who raided his apartment in search for narcotics. Front page news in Tucson.
5. Former highway patrolman convicted of raping two teenage girls.
6. Two teenage youth sentenced 60 years each for bludgeon murder of local antique dealer.
7. Ned Warren, land promoter, was scheduled to go on trial next week on six counts of offering to exert improper influence on a public official. One witness was killed by an unknown assassin the day before he was to give further testimony to the grand jury.

We move on to the city of Angels today looking for the perfect city — no police brutality — no sex crimes — no unemployed blacks — no Watergating...

Lawson, IU Superstar, Graduates

Rodney Lawson, outstanding athlete at Eastmoor Senior High School, repeated his sports feats at Indiana University, Bloomington, Ind., where he entered on an athletic scholarship.

A graduate of Indiana U. last month with a bachelor of science degree in business administration, Rodney earned most outstanding defensive player of the year award, three letters and was chosen team captain while there. While at Eastmoor he was active in music and sports, played in the school band and sang in football.

Federal Mediator To Review, Assess Alleged Discrimination

By CYNTHIA DONALDSON

A U.S. Justice Department mediator said he will analyze Ohio State's black enrollment issue following a meeting last week with President Harold L. Enarson and other University administrators in an effort to review and assess allegations of racial discrimination that have been brought to his attention by a number of groups in the University and Columbus minority community.

Jesse Taylor, mediator for the Community Relations Service from the U.S. Department of Justice's Chicago office, said in an interview that he came to Columbus to gather facts about the differences that erupted briefly Spring Quarter between the University and black student and faculty groups.

Taylor met with Enarson, Eric R. Gilbertson, special assistant to the president, Madison H. Scott, executive director of personnel services and others to discuss issues that were presented to the president's office May 21 during a demonstration by black students.

Enarson studied the recommendations for improvement of conditions of black students and faculty and answered them in a letter to William J. Holloway, provost for minority affairs at Ohio State, about a week later.

However, the Coordinating Council for Minority Affairs, headed by Holloway, and the African Student and Faculty Union (AASFU), chaired by Kujenga Ashe, rejected Enarson's reply as inadequate in a letter to the president.

Taylor refused to acknowledge who specifically called the situation to his attention but said he plans to analyze what he learned in his meeting with the University officials and will make a decision as to whether he can help in resolving the differences that exist between the two sides.

Taylor did not say how soon a decision will be made.

Gilbertson said he was perplexed by Taylor's sudden visit and had no idea why the federal mediator was on the Ohio State campus. He said Taylor was given copies of the University's affirmative action program and they discussed it with him in the meeting.

Ashe said he was among those who contacted Taylor and that AASFU is ready to sit down with University officials and discuss the issues. He said that in mediation, both sides will be able to air their views and that through working sessions, they would be able to come up with some plans on what to do.

He continued that AASFU is stressing community cooperation in the matter and that members of the group who returned to their communities throughout the state for summer vacation will be working to build strong ties with community leaders. Members staying in Columbus will be working from a legal aspect to resolve their demands, Ashe said.

While Taylor was in Columbus, he also met with University Hospital workers who have threatened to strike the hospital because of the recent firing of three service employees.

Shell Information Series: Tires

"I'd like to help you squeeze extra mileage out of every tire."

By John Thomas, Shell Staff Engineer

Here are ways to get long life from your tires, and know what to look for when you replace them, no matter where you buy.

There are two major ways to save money on tires. First, get longer life from the tires you have. Second, start figuring out what kind of tire you'll need when it's time to buy new ones. First things first.

Under-inflated tires can cost you a small fortune

Tires carrying only 60 percent of recommended pressure can actually wear out twice as fast as properly inflated tires. That's an extreme example, but it gives you some idea of the wear under-inflation can cause. And if it's combined with high speed or overload, under-inflation can also cause heat to build up until the tire actually starts to come apart.

What's more, under-inflation costs you in gasoline mileage. It simply takes more energy to turn an under-inflated tire. Fill your tires to the pressure recommended in your owner's manual and check them often. Don't forget to adjust for different load conditions.

Be sure to keep caps on your tire valves, too. If you don't, dirt can get into the valve and cause it to leak.

A word from your tire tread

I look at my tire tread regularly for danger signals. Here's what to look for.

Signal	Probable cause
	Out of balance or worn shock absorbers
	Out of alignment
	Under-inflation (see note below)
	Out of alignment
	Over-inflation

Note: Hard, fast cornering can also cause both edges of the tread to wear excessively.

Since tires can wear differently at each wheel position be sure to have your tires rotated when the owner's manual says to.

Don't drive your tires to an early grave

You pay a lot for that rubber, so why leave it all over the road? Fast stops and starts wear down the tread, even if the tires don't squeal. The same goes for fast cornering.

And excessive speed is not only unlawful, it can overheat and even destroy a tire, particularly if the tire is under-inflated or overloaded. Also, no matter how good your tires are, you should try to avoid any road hazards like chuck holes and "road junk." Any tire can be punctured, even ruined.

What makes one tire cost you more than another

The wider the tire profile, the higher the price tag will generally be. Furthermore, when you move up in size, you usually move up in price. Finally, radial tires usually cost more than bias-belted, and bias-belted usually cost more than bias-ply tires.

You should know what these terms mean before you start shopping.

Bias-ply tire. A tire in which the body cords run diagonally to the tread. Bias-ply tires offer a softer, more comfortable ride than other types of tire construction.

Bias-belted tire. The body cords run the same as in the regular bias-ply tire, but the tire also has layers of material formed into belts under the tread. These belts reduce tread squirm for longer wear and better traction than you get with non-belted tires.

Radial tire. Belted tires in which the body cords run at a right angle to the tread, instead of diagonally. Radial tires have more flexible sidewalls and roll easier than non-radials. This can give you longer tire life and better gasoline mileage. Radials also give faster, surer steering response.

Tire profile. The profile is a number that tells you, generally, how wide the tread is. The lower the number, the wider the tire. The number is actually the height-to-width ratio of a tire's cross-section. In a 78 series, for example, the height is 78% of the width. Most cars use a 78 or 70 series tire.

How to read a tire

There's a lot of information about a tire on its sidewall. For instance:

1. Size designation. This tire is a GR 78-15. The "G" designates the weight the tire is designed to support (letters run from A-N).

"R" tells you it's a radial. If there's no "R" here, it's a bias-ply or bias-belted tire. The first number in the series, 78, gives you the tire profile. The second number gives you the diameter of the wheel rim this tire will fit. In this case, it's 15 inches.

2. Load range code. The load range code will be "B", "C", or "D", and tells you the maximum allowable air pressure. This is a load range "B" tire and can carry a maximum of 32 pounds per square inch. Load range "C" and "D" tires can carry more air pressure and, therefore, heavier loads.

Most passenger cars should carry less than the maximum air pressure. If you carry a heavy load, increase the air pressure, but never above the maximum stated on the tire.

Consult your owner's manual for the recommended tire pressure for your car.

3. Load and pressure. This tells you the maximum weight the tire could carry at full air pressure. Four tires could thus support a car and load up to 6,480 lbs. (4x1620).

Before buying new tires, check your old ones

Your best guide in choosing new tires is how well your present tires have served you.

Trade for tires with the same construction and load carrying capacity if your present tires have served your needs and you're looking for another set that will last about as long.

Trade down if you're using the car less than you'd expected, and don't plan on long or hard service from the tires. But I don't advise trading down in size or load capacity.

Trade up if you haven't been satisfied with your present tires, or if your driving needs require it. Remember, bias-belted tires and radial tires generally give you better traction and longer mileage than bias-ply tires.

Don't buy tires strictly on price. The cheapest tire isn't always the best buy, but neither is the most expensive. Strength, handling, expected mileage from the tire, and even gas mileage are all factors that should enter into your decision.

Warning: Never mix tires of different sizes or types on the same axle. Never use radial tires in front with bias-ply or bias-belted tires on the rear. Improper mixing can lead to dangerously poor handling.

Shop the Shell tire line-up before you buy

Shell Comfort Ride. Our economy tire. A bias-ply tire with four full plies of polyester cord for the driver who prefers a soft, comfortable ride.

Shell Belted 78. Our bias-belted tire. It has two polyester cord body plies and two fiberglass belts for good traction and wear.

Shell Radial Ride. Our new improved economy radial. Available about June 1. Two belts of fiberglass cord, two polyester cord body plies. For the driver who wants the handling and steering response that radials offer without paying for the added strength and mileage of steel.

Super Shell® Steel-Belted Radial. Shell's best. Twin belts of steel cord, plus two radial plies of polyester cord, plus the tire mileage and steering response radial construction offers. And no matter what brand of tires you have on your car, remember there are thousands of Shell dealers anxious to help you take care of them.

Any questions? Write me.

Write John Thomas, Staff Engineer, Shell Oil Company, P.O. Box 61609, Civic Center Station, Houston, Texas 77208. And ask for our free 12-page booklet, "Three Rules for Maximum Tire Life." It has more ideas on how to get full mileage from any brand of tire.

A CHAMPAGNE BATH was given to City Councilman Jerry Hammond following his overwhelming victory in the June 3 primary election. Jerry, holding the champagne bottle, is congratulated by elected friends Dr. David Hamner, left, and Mary Emma Washington, right, at the victory party held at the Cavalier Club on election night.

WET, BUT HAPPY - City Councilman Jerry Hammond laughs at the antics of his friends and followers after being showered with champagne during his victory party on election night, June 3, at the Cavalier Club. Hammond's second place finish in the City Council race, while capturing over 46,000 votes, placed his name on the ballot for the general election on Nov. 4.

CONGRATULATIONS - Leon Mitchell, principal of Gladstone Elementary School, left, and Donald Day, campaign worker with back to camera, offer congratulations to Jerry Hammond, center, on his successful campaign for retention of his City Council seat at the Hammond victory celebration held at the Cavalier Club June 3. Hammond was showered with champagne by friends when he entered the door of the party.

The meeting was held on the campus of Tennessee State University.

Project SEED Future Discussed By Board

The future of Project SEED, a supplementary math program for fourth graders at 14 high priority schools, remained in doubt following a presentation and extended discussion at Tuesday's committee-of-the-whole meeting of the Columbus Board of Education.

The session was requested by board members at last week's board meeting, when supporters of the project turned out in force, 12 of them addressing the board, to protest an administrative announcement that the program would be curtailed.

Board member Dr. Watson Walker commented he had not seen so much enthusiasm for a course since he had been on the board.

Although discussion at this week's session appeared to be thorough and searching, there was no opportunity for representatives of Project SEED to take part in the discussion and counter criticisms of the program.

The program, which uses professional mathematicians who go into the classroom for 40-minute periods four days a week, has been hailed for its positive techniques and its success in reaching children who had previously been turned off to math.

Administrators contend, however, that its high cost ($218 per pupil) and the results of an evaluation may warrant its curtailment.

Also influencing the decision is a State Department of Education directive that the method of funding for the program be changed.

Although no definite modification of the program was decided upon, the strongest contender may be an in-service program which would provide three weeks training in SEED techniques for 60 teachers. It was not known if such an alternative would be accepted by SEED, an independent, non-profit company.

LAS VEGAS TRIP WINNERS - Mammoth Life and Accident Insurance Co. Columbus District Mgr. Herschel Butler, right, was the "happy boss" when two of his top staffers, Merzell McGhee, second from right, and Cary Bolden, left (accompanied by his wife, Mary), explained for an all expenses paid 3-day vacation trip to Las Vegas, last week. Mrs. McGhee and Mr. Bolden were the sole winners from Mammoth's Ohio offices in a firmwide sales competition. Bolden's outstanding sales achievements in the contest made him a "double qualifier," thus enabling him to take his wife on the plush junket. The two veteran insurance counselors thank the community for the support given them in the Las Vegas Contest, and invite CALL & POST readers to consult them "for any insurance needs." They're located at 705 E. Long St. and can be reached by phone at 224-4468. - BEN CHANDLER PHOTO. -PD. ADV.

Columbus Schools Announce Administrative Promotions

Twelve black educators were named in administrative promotions and changes of assignment announced recently by the Columbus Board of Education. The assignments are effective Aug. 1.

Elementary School; Rodgers Lewis, from leave of absence to principal of Moler Elementary School; Montressa Turner, from cadet principal to principal of Oakmont Elementary School and Kenneth Woodward, from assistant principal of Hamilton Elementary School to principal of Fairwood Elementary School.

Named as assistant principals were Ruth Brown, from cadet principal to assistant principal of Linden Elementary School; Fredericka Miller, from cadet principal to assistant principal of Independence Junior-Senior High; Clarence Rogers, from Shaker Heights, Ohio, Public Schools to assistant principal, Mohawk Junior-Senior High School and James Smith, from assistant principal of Adult Day High School and Evening High School to assistant principal of South High School.

HOC Favors Tenant In Security Deposit Case

The Housing Opportunity Center (HOC) announced the decision of one of the first court cases in Ohio dealing with the security deposit provision of the new Ohio landlord-tenant law.

The case involved a wrongful withholding of a security deposit by a landlord. The decision, by Judge James Pearson of the Franklin County Municipal Court, awards to the tenant a return of her $150 security deposit plus an additional $150 in damages. The court also awarded attorneys fees and court costs.

"Security deposits have been the source of many problems between tenants and landlords," said Carl White, director of HOC.

Mr. White went on to state, "Even though this particular case was not brought to court through the Housing Center, we wanted to let the public know that they have rights regarding security deposits. Judge Pearson's decision is a very positive step. Landlords must understand that they have an obligation to act responsibly when they are handling other people's money in the form of security deposits."

Mr. White said the Housing Center also has similar security deposit cases pending. Anyone wishing to know their rights regarding security deposits is urged to call HOC, 228-0851.

Corinthian To Close Revival

Rev. Robert Porter, pastor of Shiloh Baptist Church, St. Paul, Minn., and moderator of the Minnesota Baptist State Convention, is conducting a week-long revival at Corinthian Baptist, 3147 E. Fifth Ave., through Friday, June 27. Services are nightly at 7:30.

Brian Stecher, director of the program, told The CALL-POST that large scale, independent evaluations from other places consistently show significant arithmetic gains.

Asked about an evaluation of students' self concept, where SEED students showed less gains than students in regular classes, Stecher questioned the validity of the results, since the test covered only a four-month period. He also noted that a different self concept test has been given every year of the program, indicating the school system may not be satisfied with the tests.

Stecher stated that SEED, may not be working as well in Columbus as it has in other cities because of constraints which have been put on it, including placement of the program in classes with teachers who did not choose to have it.

SPECIAL NOTICE OF CHANGE IN SALES PROCEDURE EFFECTIVE IMMEDIATELY

All properties listed for sale on an individual basis shall be made available for a single 10 calendar day period during which sealed bid purchase offers will be accepted for consideration. Bid Openings will be conducted on the first working day following the end of the 10 day bid period. Although sealed bid offers may be submitted by both prospective owner-occupant and investor purchasers, priority in acceptance will be accorded to purchase offers submitted by prospective owner-occupants. Accordingly, sealed bid offers from investor purchasers will not be opened unless: (1) No offers are received from owner-occupant purchasers or, (2) such owner-occupant purchase offers as may have been received are unacceptable on their face as revealed by review at time of opening of sealed bids. BID ENVELOPES MUST CONTAIN THE FOLLOWING INFORMATION: (1) Case Number, (2) Property Address, (3) Either "Owner-Occupant" or "Investor", and (4) A return address for return of unopened investor bids. Additionally, each offer to purchase must be submitted on Form HUD 9551, Offer to Purchase and Broker's Tender, by which the purchaser indicates that he is either an owner-occupant or an investor purchaser. All bids received without the appropriate signed statement shall be treated as investor purchaser offers even though such offers may have been opened as owner-occupant offers because of markings on the outside of the envelopes. Within the constraints of considering investor offers only when no acceptable owner-occupant offers are received, the highest offer meeting or exceeding the minimum acceptable list price will be accepted for processing. Where two or more bids are identical, the selection of the purchaser will be by the drawing of lots.

Bids on the below listed packages will be accepted until COB 7-2-75. Bid opening will be at 11 A.M. 7-3-75. Closing must take place within 15 days after acceptance of bid by HUD.

Ford announces the new Pinto MPG and Mustang II MPG

34 mpg highway $2,769 ^{Pinto:}

Official test results certified by the U.S. Government Environmental Protection Agency, which rates all cars using a common dynamometer testing procedure. Competitive fuel economy results based on EPA Buyer's Guide. Mileage may vary depending on your driving habits. City mileage 23 mpg.

Base sticker price of Pinto MPG 2-Door Sedan excluding title, taxes, destination and dealer prep. Price comparisons based on sticker prices. Because destination charges are extra on all cars, and dealer prep is extra on all cars except GM cars and Toyota, the price difference may vary in some areas.

That's better than VW Beetle.
That's less than VW Rabbit.
That's better than Toyota Corona.
That's better than Datsun 710.
That's the same as Audi Fox.
That's better than Opel 1900.
That's better than Monza Towne Coupe.
That's better than many others.

$130 less than VW Beetle.
$461 less than VW Rabbit.
$739 less than Toyota Corona.
$559 less than Datsun 710.
$1,923 less than Audi Fox.
$673 less than Opel 1900.
$770 less than Monza Towne Coupe.
And less than many others.

Pinto MPG 2-Door Sedan with optional WSW tires ($55)

New Pinto MPG. The country's best-selling sub-compact economy car line now has a new model with higher mileage ratings at a lower price than the leading foreign car.

MPG These three letters can change your mind about looking to the imports for good mileage. When you see them on our newest version of America's best-selling sub-compact, you'll know you're looking at a car that beats even the VW Beetle in price as well as EPA test mileage.

You can buy the new Pinto MPG at no increase in price. Choose from a 2-Door Sedan, 3-Door Runabout or Wagon and get the same kind of standard equipment that makes the regular Pinto so popular: rack and pinion steering, 4-speed shift, overhead cam 2.3-liter 4-cylinder engine with solid state ignition, front disc brakes, and more. Best of all, Pinto MPG comes with the same type of Life-guard Design Safety Features found in our full-size Fords including side door beams, protective bumpers, and many others. (If there's one thing more important than better mileage, it's peace of mind when you're driving.)

Pinto MPG Wagon with Squire Option and WSW tires

America's best-selling wagon now has a new high mileage model (34mpg highway). Priced lower than any foreign wagon.

The Pinto MPG Wagon comes with all the standard Pinto equipment and is EPA rated at 34 miles to a gallon highway, 23 city. Even with its optional automatic transmission Pinto MPG Wagon was rated 30 mpg in highway tests, 21 mpg city. Pinto Wagon already outsells every other wagon in this country, big or small. If you want good mileage in a wagon, see your Ford Dealer fast.

Mustang II MPG Hardtop

New Mustang II MPG. Better EPA mileage ratings than any small luxury car (34mpg highway). Lower priced than any foreign competitor.

MPG This insignia tells you America's best-selling small luxury car now gives you the luxury of increased mileage. Official EPA highway tests got 34 miles to a gallon (23 mpg city) with a 4-speed manual transmission. Even with automatic transmission, the new Mustang II MPG got better mileage than many imports. Along with good mileage you get the standard Mustang II equipment: tachometer, rack and pinion steering, steel-belted radials, floor-mounted 4-speed stick and the same low Mustang II price. And you can choose from three MPG models: 2-Door Hardtop, 3-Door 2+2 or the luxurious Ghia.

Mustang II MPG $3,529

$2,575 less than Datsun 280Z
$1,124 less than Audi Fox
$896 less than Mazda RX4
$784 less than VW Dasher
$1,223 less than VW Scirocco

And $303 less than Monza Towne Coupe with its 5-speed option, which is required to achieve its best mileage results.

MPG equipment:

Ford MPG's come with a 2.3-liter 2V 4-cylinder engine, 4-speed manual (or optional automatic transmission), a 3.18 axle ratio and catalytic converter. That's the equipment that produced these high results in the EPA tests.

Automatic transmission

30mpg highway...21 mpg city.

Official U.S. Government Environmental Protection Agency tests.

*Base sticker price of Mustang II MPG Hardtop excluding title, taxes, destination and dealer prep. Price comparisons based on sticker prices. Because destination charges are extra on all cars, and dealer prep is extra on all cars except GM cars, the price difference may vary in some areas.

Unlike some competitors, Ford doesn't make you buy extra cost options for increased mileage.

See your Ford Dealer.

ACROSS THE CALL-POST NEWS DESK

By C.A. BRYCE JR.
-Guest Columnist-

A DAY IN THE LIFE -- Woke up, got outta bed, dragged a rake across my head ...
A hot muggy Saturday in Oreo City. The air conditioner in the C-P building is fighting a game but losing battle. I'm suffering from an attack of the wish-I-was-sitting-on-the-scoop-on-W-80th - St. - sippin' - Schaeffer - tokin' - Colombian - and - rappin' - to-the-miramar-blues.

I wrote some news today, O Boy...

Sam, Jerome, and especially you, Joanne -- you know I love you but Lordy knows I'm so bummed out and burned out by the "Kahiki Incident", so full of you and Otto and Bernie Chupka and Earl Burden and Rev. Jackson (Cameron, that is, not to be confused with Catron); so confounded by lies, evasions, distortions and Official Pigeon Press Releases; so psychologically and emotionally wiped out by it all that I'm beginning to feel more sorry for myself than for you and all your contusions, lacerations, fractures and innumerable legal hassles. My sense of values has been reduced to the consistency of ground round.

Somebody spoke and I went into a dream ...

Here's a late score: Cophouse Oinkers, 3; Eastside Darkies, 2 (maybe); Here we are at bat in the top of the ninth, praying for a hit and hoping we don't get rained out by technicality.

Grabbed my coat and grabbed my hat, made Long St. in seconds flat ...

When what to my wondering eyes should appear but a bright red Datsun with gangster walls and a beady-eyed driver so lively and quick, I know in a moment it must be: "Strobe" Ellis, ace paparazzo.

We're off to see the Wizard, the wonderful Wizard of Was. Would you believe there's a burlesque show in Columbus? That is, there will be if the local Commissariat of Public Morality decides to let the show go on. And what could be more frivolous, insignificant, irrelevant and completely removed from reality and We Shall Overcome-ism than a story about a bunch of naked women fighting for their collective right to express themselves (and make a few bucks in the process)?

Now let me make one thing perfectly clear: This trip isn't about indulging any latent sexist voyeurism. What it's really all about is doing something frivolous and out of left field to break up some of the heavy stuff I've been immersed in for the past several days.

(DIGRESSION: The preceding copout isn't really for you readers but for Conscience Erica, who is on duty as COD (Conscience of the Day). Unlike most simple folk, who have only one conscience, I have several dwelling beneath my derby. We live in an age of specialization, and so each of my several consciences is a specialist in some particular area of morality or ethics. For example, I have a Conscience named Amos who nags my sub-conscious with reminders that I owe something to my fellow person (Erica just gave me 1/2-point for that) just because I can see things and, in my more rational moments, can explain in writing what it is that I saw. Example 2: I used to have a Conscience named Sonny, but I think he has either retired or is on extended leave; his specialty was Paying Familial Dues. Example 3: Conscience Tony is always raising hell because I don't get paid for losing my mind. Which brings us to Conscience Erica, who is always saying things like, "Who you callin' girl?" In short, Erica is my Feminist Conscience, and on this particular Saturday, she was working overtime.)

So, where were we? Right. Buzzing up N. High St. (and, yes, I do mean buzzing because I found and killed a giant roach which was in the entryway. Heeded for the New Garden Theatre where a number of relatively young women are supposed to take all their clothes off in public and I'm supposed to do this really straight story about how it's really a violation of their First Amendment rights to hassle them about it.

And Papparazzo Ellis is telling me that all strippers are hookers and Erica is telling me that I'm some kind of closet pig and I'm telling myself that I'm just glad to be out from under the "Kahiki Incident."

Saved by the bell: No show. The police got an injunction against the theatre. The strippers are all three of them standing around in the lobby with the manager and we get to rapping about First Amendment Rights, and if you believe that you'll believe that chickens eat mice. Actually, I can't remember exactly what we talked about because one of the strippers was wearing a gold choker which read: "Sexy Bitch." And she was braless and had gigantic (I don't know what you call them in the CALL-POST but they are those fatty protuberances often found on the front of female persons). So my eyes are jumping from these fatty protuberances to "Sexy Bitch" (I swear that's what it said) and Erica is just sitting up there in the projection booth going "tch-tch-tch" and I'm just wondering what is a nice feminist sympathizer like me doing in a den of sexism like this ... So we split.

I'd love to turn you on ...
The Mid-America Modeling Convention was being held at the Sheraton. Ellis had to go there to take care of some business, so I went with him (no, he didn't have to twist my arm) ... So there we are in this suite with these three ladies (not a sexist term, Erica, because that's the trip these "ladies" were on.) And that's when the surrealism of it all began to take hold. Because these "models" were ever so chic and ever so middle class and ever so evasive, and I found that I was really turned on by them but: Their whole trip was a journey into the land of Euphemism. The strippers knew exactly what they were doing, and made no bones about it. The Models seemed to think that what they were all about had nothing to do with masculine voyeurism, feminine exhibitionism, sexism or even sex. What it was really all about was something called "fashions." Well, maybe so, but I found myself preoccupied by their fatty protuberances etc. etc. etc.

Now we know how many holes it takes to fill the Albert Hall...

Sadie's Stage Door is a bar in the Sheraton Hotel. It is there, in that air-conditioned, upholstered environment that I find myself sipping Vodka Gimlets, trying to drown Conscience Erica in a sea of booze, that I remember ... there, I'm Ted Baxter! (This is the kind of earnest that can get one separated from one's teeth, but since most of you don't get it, I suppose it's cool.)

So Ted Baxter and I are sipping and tripping and meeting all these Mid-America Models and they are all starting to meld into a solid blur in my mind when suddenly, there in the booth next to me is this really together person who is very tall and slim and chicly attired and apparently a conventioneer. "You're with the convention," I ask.

"No," she answers. "I just heard about it."

"So what are you doing here?" I asked.

And she gives me a look that says: "You're not serious, are you?"

And all of a sudden I know what she's doing there. And I know what I'm doing there.

And Erica sends me home without my supper.

Standing: Reginald Boetic, counselor; Rev. Laurence Ward Jr., Richard Posa, Clyde P. Covington III, all of the Ohio State University Social Work group, and Betty Carroll, Allen Whitehead, and Herbert Foster, counselor, all of the Columbus Technical Institute Health Technical group.

GUEST SPEAKER -- City Councilman Jerry Hammond, far right, was the guest speaker for the graduation exercises of CMACAO/CETA Higher Education graduates recently. Also, on hand for the activities were, from left: Dr. Richard Medhurst, director, OSU School of Social Work; Eddie L. Parks, CMACAO deputy director of operations; and Carol Gayden, counselor, Columbus State Institute.

AFRICAN STUDIES PROGRAM OFFERED FOR STUDENTS

The Uhuru Family Center will offer a unique opportunity for students in the fifth and sixth grades, junior high and high school to study Africa this summer. The program, The Root, will offer eight weeks of intensive instruction, seminars, and demonstrations covering African history, geography, and the social, political, and economic life of the continent of Africa past and present. Classes include African Dance, Drumming, Art, and Karate. At the end of the course, each student will receive a certificate in African Studies.

This program is the first of various means to familiarize area young people with their heritage.

FOR Regional Transit

Probably the greatest sufferers from the lack of adequate public transportation in the Greater Cleveland area are its low income and elderly citizens. Logically these people are the ones who should be showing the most enthusiasm for the passage of legislation that will create a Regional Transit System, and approve a 1% sales tax to support its operation.

Biggest, and most immediate benefit of their "YES" vote will be a reduction of the local bus fare for a one-way ride to a Guaranteed 25 cents for three years, and for a one-way rapid transit or express bus of a reduced fare of 35 cents, with no zone fares and with free transfers.

By any kind of arithmetic one cares to use, this will mean an annual savings of approximately $100 per year for those who MUST depend upon public transportation.

Along with this major benefit, there are others. For instance:

• coordinated planning and service in a county-wide public transit network.

• new routes from neighborhoods to workplaces, shopping centers, and recreation areas now hard to reach by bus or rapid.

• more frequent service on existing routes.

• extensions of existing routes to do away with transfers and to reach unserved areas.

purchase of approximately 300 new buses and 60 new rapid cars.

• new or improved passenger shelters and rapid stations.

• 24 hr. no-wait telephone information service on routes and timetables.

• easy-to-read, up-to-date timetables and maps.

• significant improvements in security - for example, at Park-Ride lots and on buses and trains.

• emergency communications equipment network.

On July 22, every "YES" vote will be needed.

Inner-city residents can only vote if they are qualified by registration. Registration in Cuyahoga County has never been easier. If you have not voted for two years, or have never registered, you CANNOT vote for this better public transportation unless you are registered by July 11th.

Special registration places are now open in virtually every community and township in the County, in schools, libraries, shopping centers and the like, within walking distance of your home. If in doubt of the nearest location simply call the Board of Elections - 771-4250 - or go to Board offices at 2400 Payne Avenue, where you may register until 4 p.m., July 11.

FOP Probe Warranted

We note with a great deal of satisfaction that an investigation of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) is well underway. We also breathe a sigh of relief when the so-called Ferguson Act, forbidding strikes by public workers, was dramatically modified by the Legislature.

But, while we welcome the above movements, we will continue to experience restless nights until an organized group of untouchables, known as the Fraternal Order of Police (FOP), and operating within our own midst, is placed under sharp scrutiny by some unbiased responsible, public or private agency.

The FOP, operating as a fraternity serving only members of law enforcement divisions feeding at the public financial trough, ought to be recognized for what it really is - a union, operating under the guise of a secret fraternity.

The CALL & POST has no argument with the FOP so long as its activities are limited to promoting social and fraternal fellowship among its members. But when it stretches its activities to the point of providing financial aid to members charged with violation of departmental regulations, then we suggest that it's time for a full public disclosure of its real purpose and its relationship with the municipalities or county offices from which its membership is drawn.

The CALL & POST will not go so far as to brand the FOP as a racist inspired group, but it is of interest to note that black law enforcement officers in Cleveland, Dayton, Toledo, Detroit and many larger cities have broke with the FOP and organized their own group.

Last week, the Columbus FOP, meeting behind closed doors for the stated purpose of taking up routine matters, came out two days later pledging financial support to two fellow members suspended from duty in connection with brutality charges.

The suspended officers, Robert W. Stout, and Robert A. Morgan, are charged with the beating of Joann Johnson, 21, Samuel E. Bryant 23, and Jerome Johnson, 23 all black, on May 30. Both Stout and Morgan have been called on the carpet before in connection with using excessive force on black victims.

Yet, the FOP, which is indirectly financed by public funds, has established a legal defense fund on behalf of the two brother officers and pledges to stick with them until they are either found guilty or innocent by the director of public safety.

The CALL & POST believes it voices the sentiments of the majority when it calls for a thorough investigation of the FOP.

Bright and Beautiful

One of the Call & Post's most significant public service programs got off to an excellent start last week when more than 300 representatives of neighborhood and block clubs met with Call & Post and Cleveland Electric Illuminating Company officials to kick off the 1975 competition.

During the next three months, those participating in the contest will be making significant improvement on their individual homes and entire blocks of homes, not so much because of the exciting nature of the prizes that are being offered winning entries, but because Home Improvement has been the major force in stabilizing their neighborhoods and preventing their properties from depreciating in value.

In addition to overall improvement of home exteriors and lawns, another facet, safety lighting, is being added to this year's competition. With the growing incidence of crime and lawlessness in many areas of the city, a low-cost program of lighting up neighborhoods can result in additional safety for all residents.

If your home or club has not entered, the deadline is June 30. Look for the entry blank that appears in this issue of the Cleveland Edition.

Police Brutality Now Legacy

The United States of America never fails to leave its legacy of brutality and genocide upon persons who are not white in this country. That legacy is now prevalent in the form of police brutality.

Lynchings have been a phenomenon of the rural South during and since slavery; police brutality has become a phenomenon of the urban situations, especially since the 1920's. Police brutality has always existed since the period of the so-called Great Migration of blacks to the north in the 1920's.

We cannot forget the "Red Summer" of race riots across the country in 1919. It touched off the conspiracy of white American against black Americans who were moving and migrating northward. There has been a continuous and uninterrupted conspiracy of white America against blacks throughout the history of America. We have to understand the relationship of lynchings in the South and police brutality in the North.

I talked to a friend of mine who believes that there is no such thing as a conspiracy of genocide against blacks in this country. He believes that most of the racist attacks of whites and police against blacks are independent of this legacy or have no real continuity of the past.

This is not to say that he is attempting to lessen the condemnation against racism, but simply to dispell the thought that there is any historical continuity of conspiracy of genocide against blacks.

I reject his thesis. I argued, I think, cogently, to show him that no action today of a racist nature is isolated from the legacy of the past. This legacy may or not be an organizational or deliberate continuity. Continuity is not contingent upon a straight-line organization phenomenon. Continuity is also based upon the ideology of racism that is the very nature and fiber of American institutional life.

Every institution of American life is built upon racism. The Constitution of the United States is built upon racism; the various governmental and social institutions of America are built upon racism. This means that every charter, every rule and regulations controlling the social and governmental institutions of America have been structured and designed around the idea - of the superiority of the white man.

There are no institutions in America that have thrived and existed for any period of time without the guarantee of the superiority of the white race.

Police brutality is the natural outcome of American racism. There is no way to avoid police brutality as long as we understand its origin. Police brutality has become the natural outcome of American life and society. It will remain as long as people subscribe to American life and society.

We will never get rid of police brutality as long as American ideals and values exist. Police brutality is not some individual peculiarity and prejudice of a particular police officer. If that were the case we could get rid of police brutality.

Police brutality is both the intention and consequence of a society so steeped in racism that it cannot help itself. Police brutality is an institutional matter and not a matter of an irrational act of a particular police officer.

We can get rid of a "Machinegun Morgan" but still not get rid of police brutality. To get rid of police brutality is to get rid of a sizeable part of American society that still insists that blacks must be controlled, condemned and killed as unwanted citizens in this country. You better believe it!

DOWN THE BIG ROAD BY WILLIAM O. WALKER

Negro-Jewish Relationships

After a short divorce, Blacks and Jews are beginning to show signs of reconciliation.

Here especially, the signs are evident. Since January, there have been a series of joint conferences, statements and other activities by Blacks and Jews.

This extra effort at patching up what for years had been cordial - almost inseparable relations - between two of the world's most oppressed peoples, comes at a time when the U.S. economy is in a serious recession and the country's relations with the Middle East is declining.

What touched off the division, and it is conceded by leaders of both groups, was the 1971 controversial lawsuit involving Marco De Funis Jr., a Jewish student who was denied admission to the University of Washington Law School. DeFunis argued, that he was better qualified than one-quarter of the students who were admitted, all of them blacks or members of other minority groups.

The issue raised the question of quotas for minority students, and it was allowed to stand by the Supreme Court's decision to rule on the case.

The high court's inaction triggered action by six groups - the American Jewish Committee, the American Jewish Congress, the Anti-Defamation League of B'Nai B'rith, the NAACP, the Urban League and the Puerto Rican Legal Defense Fund. They sent a letter to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare confirming their commitment to affirmative action programs and seeking guidelines on their applications.

Last week, 22 black leaders including prominent psychologist Dr. Kenneth Clark and Rep. Charles Rangel, D-NY, chairman of the 17-member Congressional Black Caucus, issued a statement urging participation by blacks "in the struggle for civil rights of Soviet Jews."

"We identify with them and we say their fight is our fight," the statement said. Then, the New York Amsterdam News, the nation's largest black newspaper, in a full-length editorial, called for greater cooperation between blacks and Jews.

It touched a sensitive point - the civil rights era - which evoked positive reaction by Jewish leaders.

Noting the participation of Jews in that struggle by blacks, the editorial said: "Jewish rabbis, Jewish politicians, Jewish scholars and Jewish laymen marched side by side with blacks in the face of snarling dogs, howling lynch mobs and club-wielding sheriffs," and said that blacks could not adopt a position of "benign neutrality" when Jews needed support.

"It's made my day," declared Benjamin R. Epstein, national director of the Anti-Defamation League. "There have been periods when out approaches and attitudes have not been the same, but underneath it all has been a very strong common bond."

Harry Fleischman, race relations director of the American Jewish Committee, called the editorial "beautiful" and said it was a "recognition of the fact that Black-Jewish unity never really disappeared and that the need for it is greater today than ever before."

Blacks have also expressed optimism about the new unity that is developing with Jews.

Eleanor Holmes Norton, chairman of the City Commission on Human Rights said: "No ethnic groups in the history of the United States have had better relations. The particular historical experience of Jews in the world and America have made American Jews the most enlightened of whites on racial issues."

She added, "there is no question in my mind that there has been notable improvements in the last year. You notice a new sensitivity everywhere, from the big organizations to the neighborhood groups."

And long-time civil rights leader Bayard Rustin has joined the pre-eminent A. Philip Randolph in the formation of Black Americans to Support Israel. Rustin said that more than 100 leaders had already agreed to join the group.

The new organization, Rustin said, will give "institutions evidence that the overwhelming majority of Black people and their leadership are not anti-semitic, and are in fact pro-Israel."

Jews and blacks must overlook their differences and "make common cause against the enemies of justice," because the future of both groups is "important to the social and political health of this country and to its progress towards justice through democratic means."

Morris B. Abram, Chairman of the Moreland Act Commission, made his remarks as he accepted the American Jewish Committee's American Liberties Medallion at a dinner in New York.

"Jews and blacks historically have been vulnerable people," Mr. Abram explained. "The state of their security can almost be said to serve as barometric measures of the social climate. When the state trespasses on the liberty of the Jew, the freedom of all is soon in peril. When joblessness of the black - always higher than that of the general public - begins to escalate, you can be sure that the economy is on the slide, and even Chrysler will be in trouble."

In addition, he pointed out, the Jewish population of the United States was substantially urban and the black population was rapidly becoming so. By 1980, he predicted, both groups will be almost entirely urban and will have to work out their destinies together in the nation's major metropolitan centers.

Rhodes Inks History Bill

A bill requiring that significant contributions of Americans of African, Mexican, Puerto Rican and American-Indian descent, be taught in all public schools in Ohio, was signed into law Friday by Gov. James A. Rhodes. As a result, beginning Sept. 19, 1975, relevant contributions of those four minority groups must be included in subjects taught in public schools throughout the state.

Rep. Casey Jones (D-Toledo), chief sponsor of the bill, guided it through the House on March 11 by a vote of 75 to 13 and sent it to the Senate. The Senate, by a vote of 19 to 7, approved the proposal on June 2 after beating down two amendments, one of which raised a constitutional question yet to be decided.

The amendment, offered by Sen. Anthony O. Calabrese (D-Cleveland), sought to include instruction of Italian contributions in the measure. The amendment was voted down by a 13 to 13 tie vote, with Lt. Gov. Richard Celeste refusing to cast a vote to break the deadlock.

Senate Republican Minority Leader Michael J. Maloney, Cincinnati, arguing that "Article III, Section 18, of the Ohio Constitution and Section 108.30 of the Ohio Revised Code, provides that the Lieutenant Governor, as president of the Senate 'shall' vote when the Senate is equally divided," filed the constitutional protest.

However, since the bill has been approved by Rhodes, the protest will apparently have no effect, other than establishing a legal ruling.

During the floor debate on the bill, Sen. M. Morris Jackson (D-Cleveland), who led the fight for passage, opposed Calabrese's amendment, reminding the Italian emigrant that many Italians in U.S. history are prominently mentioned in American schools and textbooks. Calabrese acknowledged that fact, but maintained that he is primarily disturbed because Italian language is seldom taught.

The bill, as signed into law, will require that notable contributions to American history by blacks, Mexicans, Puerto Ricans and American Indians be taught in geography, government, state and national history courses in all public schools.

Upon passage of the bill, Jackson, a co-sponsor, commented that special instruction will help minorities who are deprived of formal teaching of their ethnic backgrounds and at the same time benefit others by showing them the true origins of their country.

Jones, who had previously sponsored a bill designed to require that "Black History" be taught in public schools, attributed passage of the bill to his inclusion of other minorities in the legislation. His bill and one introduced by Sen. William F. Bowen (D-Cincinnati), in previous sessions, all died in committees of the respective branches.

...DOWN TO BUSINESS

I am afraid that the government is about to call on we poor and Black folks just too often. Time and again we have to bear the brunt of yet another ill advised plan to solve the economic and social woes of this country.

Black folks have built this country with the sweat and blood which was spilled in slavery and indentured servitude. They have cultivated the land and provided the manpower to help build the industries of the nation. Yet, we as a people have been disenfranchised, disadvantaged, un- and underemployed, in greater numbers proportionate to our overall population than any other segment of the American populace - we have been shafted.

That's right - Shafted! Pat Paulson, despite being white and a comedian, may have hit it on the head. He was talking about big oil magnates giving the American public the shaft while in fact the analogy might apply more appropriately to majority America getting the wealth from the oil and the derricks and other machinery while the poor and Blacks get the shaft.

From all indications, we are going to be the ones who will pay the price of the failing economy. We are certainly the ones who cannot afford to, but sure enough we are going to be the likely targets. From the sounds of battle which are rising fast from Capitol Hill, road signs are pointing toward inadequate tax rebates, reductions in withholding taxes, less money available for welfare, less money for unemployment and 20,000 fewer public service jobs in the face of a very real possibility of an unemployment rate nationally of 9 per cent. That means another million people in addition to the 7 and one-half million which are already without jobs. You'd better believe that the majority of that added million will be Black folks because of the lack of marketable skills.

The government is preparing to write a check that I hope the people will not cash. I know for a fact that America's Black populace cannot afford to. I hope that for once we will be ready to return to the United States of America a note of overdraft from the people who will say that the funds are insufficient to cover the cost of another unjust plan.

Poor folks cannot afford to pay more for cars, more at the gas pumps and still let the major oil companies sop up record revenues in the name of energy experimentation. Poor folks can't afford to be laid off and pay more at the grocery store and absorb 20 to 50 per cent increases in utilities and other services. Poor and Black folks cannot and are not dumb enough to rejoice at the promise of tax rebates to increase their disposable incomes - when it will probably amount to no more than an average of a hundred dollars per individual, when they are going to have to pay three or four times that for the things they really need.

NO! I cannot believe that we are going to buy that proposition. Economic crisis or not, we are ones who can least afford to pay the price and an insensitive government apparently will choose to ignore the fact.

Affirmative Corporate Responsibility

Beginning in September of this year, the journalism scholarship program established by the R.J. Reynolds Industries, Inc. in cooperation with the National Newspaper Publishers Association (NNPA) will provide scholarships for five new journalism majors beginning in September.

In an outstanding example of "Corporate Responsibility," Marshall B. Bass, Corporate manager, personnel development at R.J. Reynolds, gave NNPA a check for more than $13,000 during the organization's recent 38th annual convention in San Francisco.

Kenneth Stanley, son of the late Frank L. Stanley, Sr., one of the pioneers in the organization of the black-oriented NNPA, accepted the check on behalf of the NNPA scholarship Foundation.

Bass told a banquet gathering of more than 300 NNPA members and guests that RJR was highly pleased with the performance of the 15 black journalism students who are already receiving support from the RJR scholarship program. He noted that these students are enrolled in leading colleges and universities throughout the country and that they are successfully meeting the academic challenge of their respective institutions.

Recalling the purpose of the scholarship program, Bass told the NNPA group that RJR was sensitive to the important role the nation's black press plays and that through the journalism scholarship program RJR has sought to help fill the need for more black journalists.

Dr. Carlton B. Goodlet, NNPA president, praised RJR for its scholarship support and said that the corporation has remained a "steadfast" friend of the black publisher's organization and the black press.

The need for more black journalists continues, Goodlet said. "With one third of the black population living in the 25 largest cities and with one half living in the 50 largest cities, we need to develop 'the highest degree of professional proficiency in communications,'" Goodlet said.

"There is a great interest and concern in the black community today with respect to the environment, hypertension, suicide, drugs, etc.," Goodlet told NNPA members and guests, "and we can never have a full understanding and appreciation for these and other vital issues unless we have men and women of letters, people who can write."

Goodlet called RJR's support of NNPA programs and the black press a "very important development in corporate America." RJR's initial effort, he said, has caused other corporations to join with NNPA in achieving its goals.

RJR journalism scholarships provide scholarship support for a four-year period.

While there is no obligation that those receiving NNPA journalism scholarships, MUST establish careers with black newspapers and/or magazines, it is hoped that graduates will recognize the wider opportunities for dedicated service and black advancement that is inherent in the black press, and will choose these media for careers that provide for them the maximum in freedom of expression and depth of experience not available to them in the great majority of the mass media.

Certainly the corporations that have helped make these scholarships available had this objective in mind when they joined hands with NNPA, a predominantly black-oriented organization.

Abolish Entrapment Act

Many years ago a very prominent black attorney, Wilbur King, was trying a case in court. The case hinged around a white man approaching a black bellman to get him a black prostitute. The bellhop obliged, took a tip, and was promptly arrested for hustling women.

The white man was a police officer in disguise. Atty. King charged that the act was entrapment. The prosecuting attorney laughed and declared that he had never heard of such a law.

Atty. King excused himself from the courtroom for a few minutes and returned with a statute book, laid it before the prosecuting attorney and said: "Now, you read it. I wrote it." It was the law against police officers, county or state officials setting a man up to incriminate himself.

The act rose during prohibition days when police officers were trying to break up bootlegging and they had just as tough a fight on their hands as they have trying to drain off all the dope from the hands of the public.

But the police of those prohibition days could not begin to cope with the promiscuous entrapment acts committed by the state liquor control officers. They are ever at it and have been at it since liquor came back as a legal drink.

A liquor undercover agent will get some teenager to go into a carryout or a tavern. When the owner asks to see his credentials, he shows them to prove that he is of legal age to buy and drink alcoholic beverages.

But, while the purchase is being transacted, in walks a liquor control agent, who arrests the owner for selling to minors.

The licenses are suspended for a time; the owner is fined heavily and may have to go jail. That is all the court wants to hear about, but there is a definite action of entrapment in it all, with the state deliberately contributing to juvenile delinquency by inducing teenager to pose as an adult and presenting falsified credentials to prove him to be of age.

This entrapment action has been going on for many years and no one has done anything about it. Influencing a youngster to try to buy liquor and possessing him with false age credentials — who in this state has the guts to get on the Liquor Dept. and the courts for upholding such a practice — yet, it goes on repeatedly.

Suspension of license — for a time — fits the punishment of the guilty, but how guilty is an owner who sees birth certificates that have been falsified by the liquor agent? Something is rotten in this state to condone such actions. It is entrapment and the liquor agent, who sets it up and makes the arrest, ought to suffer the punishment meted out in the entrapment law.

It is promiscuous, but why? Of course, the agent must be busy doing their jobs, but their jobs do not consist of traducing tavern managers and carryout owners to commission of self incriminating acts. No lawman has any right to make a man act wrongly through ignorance of the real facts. But they do just that in entrapment acts.

It is known that part of the city's income arises from court fines and bail jumping. Now, when there is an arrest for selling to minors, there is a fine, money in the state's pocket. Must the state, itself, commit an unlawful act to bolster up the treasury? Not at all. But it is a lucrative income going to some state department's coffers.

This action on the part of liquor enforcement agents has been going on since legal liquor reopened. The agents are very strict about what is being done by permit holders and when everyone is toeing the line, they get busy and set up something.

Well, if everyone is behaving properly, there will be little need of a lot of agents. And, rest assured, the tavern men and carryout permit holders are behaving, for they want to keep their businesses.

How can one find fault and make arrests with that going on? The department must function. Zealous agents get busy with entrapment. Get a teenager; hand him false birth certificate to show a tavern keeper; hide, but keep an eye on the teenager as he is being sold liquor; rush in right behind the teenager; make the arrest; suspend the manager's license; let the judge read the riot act in a sentence, and even set a jail term.

The state is the guilty party in the whole matter, for it was a state agent who set it up, induced the teenager to make the purchase after he had shown the owner false birth certificate.

How can it be otherwise than that the state of Ohio is guilty of fraud and contributing to juvenile delinquency in setting a kid up to buy liquor? How can it be other than a case of entrapment in setting up a tavern-keeper to sell after accepting face value of the credentials; the director of the comedy of errors; the law enforcing man?

SHORTY was all smiles when I met him down at his favorite gin mill. He had done the numbers bankers in, and latched onto one of them Ohio Lottery tickets that brought him $20 and a chance to become a millionaire. He still don't know which odds in which game are the longest, but he can't help being a gambling man. Got his mind concentrating on 384 for sometimes between now and the glorious fourth!

Glenna Brown Hosts Circle-Lets At Elegant Affair

The Columbus Chapter of Circle-Lets Inc., ended their 1974-75 club year in high style and for that, they have Glenna Brown, one of the four local co-founders to thank. Glenna treated her club sisters to a beautiful champagne brunch at her attractive home, which is a delightful setting for any gala affair.

Since it was the first installation of local officers in the history of the Columbus chapter, there was no established precedent to follow. This turned out to be a good thing because versatile Pat Moorehead took on the pleasant job of writing the ceremony and she outdid herself.

The Circle-Lets installation ceremony was meaningful and colorful. As part of the ceremony each of the outgoing and the incoming officers were presented a variety of long stemmed flowers, especially chosen for their symbolic significance.

Glenna's brunch menu was superb. She served a perfect soufflé with ham, Danish rolls and cool, cool glasses of sparkling champagne. It was a menu that had a way of making one feel that it was not too dangerous to over eat, especially if a second roll was by-passed.

The business section of the meeting was chaired by Maxine Hamlar, outgoing local president, one of the co-founders of the area chapter and the local chapter's delegate to the Circle-Lets National Convention in Atlanta, Ga. July 17-20.

Come September, Mrs. William (Lou) Preston will assume the leadership of the local Chapter of Circle-Lets Inc. The other officers for the 1975-76 club year will be Delores White, vice-president; Betty Brown recording secretary; Glenna Brown, corresponding secretary; Terri Walker, treasurer and Carline Weddington parliamentarian.

Other members of the club are Dorothy Bell, Shirley Callion, Rosetta Moore, Pat Moorehead, Joan Thornton, and Iona Williams.

Circle-Lets, Inc. was organized in 1955 by Dorris Bass and Vivienne Mayes in Dallas, Texas.

Besides Columbus, there are chapters in Dallas, Texas, Boston, Mass., Chicago, Ill., New York, N.Y., Roanoke, Va., Philadelphia, Pa., Los Angeles, Calif., New Jersey, Washington, D.C., Pittsburgh, Pa., West Los Angeles, Calif., Atlanta, Ga., San Francisco, Calif.

things without a lot of fanfare. If all of her good deeds were ever told she would most likely win "The Nice Lady of the Year Award". Helen Lauderdale is a gal who always has a personal project going on. She completed her latest when she received her Master's first trip there. While some of us 39 and holding folks are barely able to move about because of ninety million aches and pains, there are those people like Roberta Bassett who is able to do the double bump with a swinger like Ed Willis. Jean Bowen has quite a reputation about town. She is known as a pleasant person who never frowns. I've never met one single soul who has ever seen Jean with anything but a smile upon her face, and I don't need to tell you how refreshing that is. Mildred Coleman has a very special pink outfit for summer. It will look great at a patio party and here's hoping that she doesn't pack it away for very special occasions. The Decorators Show house made quite a hit in Columbus, and over $71,000.00 for the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts. According to reports, it was the most successful project ever undertaken by Gallery volunteers. It is great to see Caroletta Curtis up and about after several weeks of illness. We only wish that we could reschedule her daughter, Carla's graduation from college. Caroletta had been looking forward to Carla's graduation from Speiman for four years. It just wasn't in the cards for her to be there. Unfortunately, she was confined to the hospital on that most important day. Sad as it may be, the entire Curtis family knows it could have been much worse. Dr. and Mrs. William Preston and their daughter Trudy journeyed to Chicago for young William. Mrs. Henry Hancock. According to Mrs. Hancock it was their personal way of saying "Thank You" to the Baileys for all the kindness they have shown them for the past 12 years. As a matter of fact, Mrs. Hancock said that if there was a "Good Neighbor Award," the Baileys would certainly take the prize. Aren't you proud of me, for letting you know that Lou Preston, Terri Walker, Dr. Helen Hord and Pat Moorehead will be celebrating birthdays in July. Then too, Irma and Otis Henderson, Julia and Judge James Pearson, Robert and Virginia Harris will celebrate their wedding Anniversaries during the month of July. Our best wishes to all of them. Toni and Cal Brunson have moved to Reynoldsburg. While we didn't hear what Toni had to say about their home, Cal said "I've never been more pleased in my life." Now for the most magnificent news of all. You dear people are in for a treat. For the next two issues of the Call & Post you will be treated to the guest columns of Toia McMurray and Catherine Willis.

Toia is a long time friend that I met when she was involved in my favorite organization, The League of Women Voters. Currently she is the supervisor of Democratic Secretaries of the Ohio House of Representatives. She is the wife of Charles McMurray, prominent civic leader and commercial manager-public office at Ohio Bell.

Catherine Willis is a teacher in the Columbus Public School System and a previous guest columnist for Social Panorama. She is a new member of the Columbus Urban League Board of trustees and the wife of Edward Willis, principal of East High School. Happy reading and Thanks Ladies.

13 Welcomed At Twig 110 Recognition Ball As Members, Guests 'Bump' Evening Away

Twig 110's Recognition Ball for new members, held at the Hilton Inn on Olen-tangy River Rd. recently, was a great success, as members and guests bumped the evening away to the music of King Arthur and his Knights.

New members welcomed to Twig 110 are: Peggy Allen, Estelle Baskerville, Elaine Bell, Ruth Brown, Catherine Grandell, Sharon Jackson, Theresa Lenon, Carol Rivers, Thelma Ross, Genny Smoot, Carlene Weddington, Delores White and Doris Williams.

Included among the guests were original Twig 110 charter members Edna Newkirk and Doris Harris

Dr. John H. Rosemond also took time out from his busy schedule to join in the fun.

Twig 110 recently received the Certificate of Merit from the Twig board of directors, thus joining the ranks of Twigs who have contributed more than $2000 to Children's Hospital during 1974.

The fine support of the community, press, TV and radio at the Ebony Fashion Fair '74 and the Twig 110 Bazaar booth, making this donation possible, is to be commended.

Twig 110 is looking forward enthusiastically to the Ebony Fashion Fair '75 on Sept. 14 at Marshon Auditorium.

DEWAR'S PROFILES

(Pronounced Doers "White Label")

LOUIS SLAUGHTER and EDWARD CARR

HOME: Kansas City, Missouri

OCCUPATION: Writer/Artist team

LAST ACCOMPLISHMENT: Created a highly successful comic strip which is drawn and distributed completely by Blacks.

QUOTE: "We use our comic strip to point out the problems faced by poor people in the ghetto... and to make people laugh at themselves rather than at others."

PROFILE: Carr (25) is gregarious, people-oriented—likes to play drums and sing. Slaughter (32) is an introvert, preferring the solitude of fishing or reading.

Together, they're a highly imaginative, inventive team. They know "what's going down" in the ghetto, and they want to influence what they see.

SCOTCH: Dewar's "White Label"

Authentic. There are more than a thousand ways to blend whiskies in Scotland, but few are authentic enough for Dewar's White Label. The quality standards we set down in 1846 have never varied. Into each drop go only the finest whiskies from the Highlands, the Lowlands, the Hebrides.

Dewar's never varies.

corresponding secretary; Cecilia McGinnis, president; Mary Price, vice president; Jo Ann Scott, dues treasurer; Esther Safford, treasurer; Dorothy Bell, parliamentarian.

Outdoor Study Program For Youth Offered

An environmental summer camp experience is being offered for area youth of the fifth and sixth grades this summer.

International Field Studies, a non-profit educational organization, is offering three two-week outdoor education programs which will give students first hand experience in environmental education.

Groups of seven or eight students and a counselor will study each of four ecological environments—meadow, pond and stream, general landscape and soil. They will participate in social activities, sports and outdoor recreation on the 1000 acre campgrounds.

Students will be of mixed social and economic backgrounds. Sessions will go from July 8 to 18, July 20 to Aug. 1 and Aug. 3 to 15. Cost is $90 per session with some scholarships available for disadvantaged youth. For more information, call Mike Schmidt at International Field Studies, 236-7179 or 236-7187.

Doing What Comes Naturally Pays Off For Pamela Holden

By THERESA HUMPHREY

Doing what comes naturally paid off recently for Ms. Pamela Holden when she won some of the top awards in the "Young Designers '75" fashion show sponsored by the fashion design department of the College of Design, Architecture and Art at the University of Cincinnati.

Ms. Holden, who was graduated from the school last week with a BS in Design, won two $100 awards for her creations in the show. One award was from Florangel-Steinberg, a retail store in Cincinnati, for her line of sportswear. The other was from Baylis Brothers, a Cincinnati-based children's wear manufacturer.

The show, sponsored each year by the fashion design department, is open to all students in the department on a competitive basis. Garments for the show are chosen by a jury of selection made up of buyers and designers from Cincinnati and surrounding areas. Mrs. Mariko Harris, a freelance designer from Columbus, was on the jury this year.

More than 300 garments were submitted to the jury, which they had to select 171 for the show. Ms. Holden said she submitted nine garments and all were accepted.

This is the third year she has submitted garments for the show. "I submitted one garment when I was a pre-junior and it was accepted," she said, adding that she submitted seven last year and five were accepted.

And this isn't her first year for winning awards. She said for the two previous years she has won the Silver Thimble Award, which is a departmental award for the most consistent performance.

And consistent she is! Although fresh out of college and job hunting, one of Ms. Holden's creations—a green criss-cross halter gown with a bare midriff—can be seen in the June issue of Cosmopolitan magazine. She designed the dress while employed by Funky—a Los Angeles firm whose clientele includes Las Vegas and Hollywood entertainers.

"Funky designs clothes that are different, revealing and sexy," Ms. Holden explained, adding that the firm had a supplement of designs in a recent issue of Women's Wear Daily and included one of her creations.

How did she get the job? "The fashion design department requires students to co-op, which means we have to work so many months out of each year," she said. "I had co-oped as a sales clerk in Washington, D.C., and Columbus, and I had worked as a junior sportswear designer for six months with the Grove Co. in St. Louis."

"When I went to Los Angeles, I thought I was ready for a designer's job so I started knocking on doors."

Now that she's graduated, she plans to make her home in Los Angeles "because of the environment."

"I not only want to be a designer, but an entrepreneur," she said. "I want to have my own boutique, and plans are developing for an active sportswear line to sell to retail buyers on the west coast."

A 1970 graduate of Marion-Franklin High School, Ms. Holden attributes her success so far to her family and friends.

"Everyone has backed me totally and helped me to be optimistic," she said, adding that "the competition keeps me going too."

Ms. Holden has been sewing since she was in elementary school, and said she decided to become a designer while in high school.

"I really want to be an accomplished designer, recognized and accepted by the fashion conscious public because I really think I am gifted in this field," she explained.

Historic Craft/Arts Among Hobby Show's Attractions

Historic Craft-Arts, which have all but disappeared from modern, fast-paced lives today, are among the many attractions to be found at the 27th Annual Golden Age Hobby Show.

The arts and collections of the arts will be highlighted this year in honor of the Bicentennial Celebration being observed for the next 18 months, recognizing and honoring the first 200 years of the nation's existence.

The Co-sponsors, the Columbus - Dept. of Recreation and Parks and the Columbus Citizen-Journal, have announced that the special show will be held in the newly air-conditioned Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts July 11-13.

Chmn. Byron Kohn announced the following schedule:

The show opens Friday evening with the awarding of prizes in the craft categories. Following the naming of the King and Queen that evening, there will be a grand ball in the Gallery.

On Saturday, July 12, all of the exhibits will be open to the public and craft demonstrations and drama presentations are planned. Sunday's schedule includes a talent show and exhibits, which will again be open to the public. Refreshments will be served throughout the weekend.

Entrants must be 60 years of age or older and must reside in Franklin, Kalamazoo, Licking, Union, Fairfield, Pickaway or Madison Counties.

Ohio GOP Council Honors Helen Evans; Garrett Calls Geo. Wallace "Racist"

COLUMBUS - Ohio Republican leaders and loyalists gathered in strength here in Imperial House last Saturday (June 14) at a colorful banquet honoring Mrs. Helen W. Evans of Marysville, an active Republican for more than 35 years, and who currently is Director of the Ohio Department of Industrial Relations, and thus the first black woman to hold a state cabinet post.

The principal speaker, Thaddeus Garrett, Jr. of Akron, Ohio, a special assistant to Vice President Nelson Rockefeller, showered Mrs. Evans with fulsome praise, and then launched into a caustic comparison between the Vice-President's long-established liberal record, and the racism of Alabama's Governor George Wallace, whom he labeled as "a man who will go down in history as the greatest racist in history."

Garrett suggested that the nomination of Wallace as a Democratic nominee for president in 1976, would move millions of the nation's voters back into the Republican party.

Wallace's record, said Garrett, shows he is a supporter and promulgator of segregation, and he has been a political anathema to minorities in Alabama and the nation," Garrett said.

He said a Wallace candidacy would stimulate heavy black voting.

Garrett quoted press reports that Ohio Democratic Chairman Paul

Tipps "would support Wallace if Wallace wins the 1976 Democratic nomination for president."

If Tipps can support Wallace that tells us that the Democratic leadership is far from being progressive and indicates very clearly that Ohio Democratic leadership would be selling black Democrats and Republicans down the river," Garrett said.

Garrett characterized Wallace as "a man who will go down in history as the greatest racist in history."

Garrett said he was "throwing open the doors of the Republican Party to all of the blacks of this state."

"Black Democrats have to reassess his (Tipps') leadership

"I challenge Tipps to explain himself," Garrett said he has heard of no responsible Republican leaders in the country supporting Wallace.

Garrett also called Democratic leadership in the Ohio General Assembly "an outrage—an unacceptable, irresponsible performance."

"Their minds are not on good government, but on two-bit politics," he said.

"They started out on a note of irresponsibility by bypassing constitutional processes," he said, referring to six politically motivated bills passed in January without being signed by then-Lt. Gov. John W. Brown.

Garrett praised Gov. Rhodes as "the most progressive governor in the nation, Democratic or Republican. His record as a champion of minority causes is unsurpassed by any other governor."

He spoke of Rockefeller, for whom he has worked since April 1, as "a tremendous man with an impeccable civil rights record, which is one of the reasons that over half of the black members of Congress voted for his confirmation as vice president and they're all Democrats."

MRS. HELEN W. EVANS (left) Director of the Ohio Department of Industrial Relations, receives a plaque from Mrs. Loretta Clark, Columbus (center) on behalf of the Ohio Republican Council in recognition of her "dedication and leadership in the Republican Party. they couldn't get around indicting him.

"But to indict a man for negligent homicide, who aims a shotgun out of a window and shoots someone in the back is not only an insult to the Black community but to the entire Cleveland community," said Stallings.

"Our position is that we expect Mayor Perk to suspend patrolman Ralph Thomas, forthwith. This is his policy and regardless of what Chief Lloyd Garey says we expect the mayor to follow his usual policy and commitment to suspend Thomas," added Stallings.

Maybe, Mayor Perk didn't expect either of the cops to be indicted.

Browne's mother, Ms. Gloria Adams, 12418 Castlewood, says the indictment with its minor charge is little more than she expected.

She further stated that the Cleveland community is full of sick infidels who, no matter what, can find it in their moral fiber to release a criminal or even criticize a wrist slap ruling against him.

Ms. Adams vowed to fight on, "I expected them to whitewash it. I don't care how they treat it, it's murder, and I think they should be treated like any other murderer." Continued Ms. Adams, "I still have faith in Mr. Forbes, Ms. Johnson, the United States Justice Department and in God."

Ms. Adams says she will cooperate with the Justice Department to see that justice is served, that is, if her lawyer, James L. Hardiman, chairman of the Cleveland NAACP Legal Redress Committee, agrees.

"I have full confidence in him and everything is in his hands from here on out."

As for the charge of negligent homicide against Thomas, Ms. Adams says, "how can you call it negligent homicide when a shotgun is locked in a rack and someone is going to take the gun out the rack and point it out a window and shoot somebody — when you shoot someone with a shotgun you intend to kill them."

Ms. Adams has completed private police training and has worked on jobs as a security guard. She also has completed many hours of firearms instruction at Case Western Reserve University.

Although Chief Garey has chosen to keep Thomas on duty, the Webster's New International Dictionary (2nd edition-unabridged) defines negligence as: 1. the quality or state of being negligent; lack of due diligence or care; omission of duty; neglect.

2. Law — Failure to exercise the care that the circumstances justly demand; omission of duty in doing or forbearing. When such failure results in injury to another the negligent person is liable in damages, and may be criminally liable.

Many of those spoken to also expressed dismay as to why Patrolman Robert Buddie was not also indicted. "Buddie was the driver of the auto and could have ended the chase at any time."

Women Under 30 Say Educations Wasted

Women under 30 voice the greatest discontent with the opportunities of a woman's life. More than older women, they call their educations wasted and think that being a woman has stopped them from doing things they want to in life.

More than 2 in 5 younger women (43%) think they would have gotten a lot further in this world as a man, as compared with 33% of all women.

Women living in the suburbs of the nation's largest cities are also most convinced that their sex has held them back. A high 48% say they would have gotten further as a man.

But are there more advantages in being a man? Most women (56%) say "No," there are no more advantages in being one sex or the other.

However, 1 woman in 3 does say "Yes, men have more advantages" — while only 6% of women and 5% of men feel it is more advantageous to be a woman.

Men see even more advantages in being male. While nearly half say that one's sex makes no difference, more than 2 in 5 think that men are the luckier sex.

WOMEN HAVE MORE RESPECT

By a two-to-one margin, both men and women say that women are looked upon with more respect as individual human beings than they were 10 years ago.

Some 47% of women and 48% of men say that women now rate more respect, although 23% of each sex say that women today are respected less than they were 10 years ago. The respect for women today is about the same as it was a decade ago, according to 23% of women and 25% of men, states the Poll.

The highest perceptions of increased respect for women are among college-educated women and men, three fifths of whom see women receiving more respect. Next come women under 30, and to a somewhat lesser degree, men under 40 and women and men living in the suburbs of large metropolitan areas.

Older people of both sexes, the grade school-educated, blacks, Southerners and rural dwellers are more likely than most to see women as respected less now than a decade ago.

There may be some confusion, however, between respect for women as individuals and respect for "a lady," which has dwindled considerably.

Ms. Has Not Made Much Headway—Yet

The substitution of Ms.

as a form of address for all women instead of Miss or Mrs. has made little headway with women. Only 14% say they prefer it, and only 13% of men favor Ms. But it is possible that this attitude may change. In a survey conducted by The Roper Organization only six months earlier, only 10% of women and 11% of men favored Ms.

In addition, the new form of address is gaining acceptance with young women, now one fourth of whom prefer it.

Ms. is also favored by 20% of college-educated women; by 33% of divorced and separated women, and by 29% of single women.

This Poll stresses women's attitudes toward love, marriage and the family as well as women's feelings toward themselves and their place in society.

COOKING AND SAVING WITH Campbell's

Save this week with chicken

Chicken is one of the best buys in the supermarket. It's high in protein and relatively low in cost. To make it an even better value, buy whole chickens and split them yourself. Whole chickens are cheaper by the pound than cut up chicken.

And here's another way to economize with chicken and other meats by cooking with Campbell's Soup. Campbell's Soup can help stretch meat dishes. So many Campbell's Soups are ideal for cooking. Look for recipes on the labels. And try this delicious chicken and rice dish using Campbell's Tomato Soup. It's enough for a family of six and it's Mmm! Mmm! Good!

Hughes, Former OSU Football Star, Switches To Employment Services

COLUMBUS — Learning discipline, knowing how to meet people, and working hard as a defensive halfback for four years under Ohio State University Football Coach Woody Hayes, was like on - the - job - training for 24-year-old John Marcus Hughes Jr., in preparation for his present position as an employer relations representative for the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services.

Hughes has been employed by OBES since Feb.

18, of this year, after deciding not to accept another one-year contract with the Portland Storms of the World Football League. As a regular strong safety with Portland in 1974, after being traded from Memphis, Hughes led the coast team in interceptions with 10.

The former OSU gridded loved football as long as it was a game. In the World Football League, Hughes quickly became disillusioned with the game because it had become a job... It didn't take the defensive back long to appreciate Woody's hard nose football, for he felt he was much better prepared to play football than many of his teammates.

The personable 6 foot - 1 1/2 inch former defensive halfback works out of the Job Bank section of the Columbus office at 309 S. Fourth St. He makes daily contacts in various parts of the city with employers offering to help and assist them in filling job openings with job-ready applicants.

Hughes, who likes to meet and talk with people, something he learned from Woody Hayes, explains to employers that if they have jobs to fill, the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services, whose trademark is the big red, white and blue Job Service Symbol, can fill them.

As Hughes pointed out, this applies to any kind of a job, even those that require highly skilled people. The employer relations representative (ERR) explained that they can help employers in many ways. For example if they are planning expansion in another area, ERR's can advise an employer of the labor force available there.

Hughes said he has not encountered any particular problems in his meetings with employers. He did point out that a representative better learn quickly whether an employer has time to see him.

The former OSU football player said he has obtained some orders because an employer recognized him from seeing him on the Woody Hayes television show.

"I never mention sports until an employer brings it up," Hughes remarked. "I want to meet an employer as a employer relations representative of the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services and not as a football player," Hughes was quick to mention.

Recently Hughes stopped by to visit with Coach Hayes in his office at St. John Arena and thank him for what a big help his teachings had been for him.

CHURCH WEDDING - John Hughes and his fiancée, Belinda Church, will be married next year. Employed by the Dept. of Natural Resources, Miss Church is a graduate of Columbus East High School and Miami University of Ohio. Hughes quipped "anyway we look at it, there will be a church wedding."

Woody was glad to see Hughes, inquired as to what he was doing and remarked, "He'll do a good job because he works hard. John has always been a fine football player, his only trouble was injuries." Hayes was quick to add, (Hughes who played in 1969-70-73 missed the entire 1971 season with a torn cartilage in the knee suffered in practice just four days before the opening game.)

Hughes told of spending a lot of time talking with Hughes' mother, Juanita, and father, John Sr., before recruiting him for the 1969 season. "I knew he came from a fine family," Hayes smiled while classifying Hughes as another of his quality boys.

Hughes a star quarterback and safety at Duquesne, Pa., high school, selected Ohio State because of the university's educational facilities, respect for Coaches Hayes and Earl Bruce, and the school's winning tradition.

Before leaving Hayes' office Hughes volunteered to help with future recruiting. A member of three Rose Bowl teams, the defensive backfield star graduated from Ohio State in 1973 with a degree in education and plans to return to classrooms at OSU in June to continue his education in business administration. Hayes reminded Hughes that he wouldn't have time if he was planning to get married.

Hughes, who resides at 404 Thurber Dr. West, and Belinda Church, a Columbus East High School and Miami University of Ohio graduate, and presently employed by the Dept. of Natural Resources, are making plans to be married in January.

After making a decision to give up a pro football career, Hughes applied for a job with the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services, 145 S. Front St. in Columbus. He met and discussed job possibilities with Administrator Albert G. Giles, who was impressed with the sincerity of the former football player. Shortly thereafter he was hired and located in the Job Bank section of the Columbus office.

Fred Ferguson, is Manager of Job Bank, a computerized system of bringing job seekers and jobs together. The system stores information on jobs and applicants. It is updated daily and is made available to employment offices through a statewide Job Bank.

The employer relations representative has been learning his job under the expert guidance of Mrs. Betty Penn, who has been a dedicated employer of the Bureau for 17 years. Mrs. Penn says she wears two hats - as an employer relations representative and as an equal employment representative.

Hughes is happy in his work because it means meeting and helping people as well as striving to go up in the world - something that Woody

Hughes always teaches his players - to keep going up, even if it means to get up off the ground first.

$30,000 Grant Goes To Wilberforce Tornado Fund

WILBERFORCE, O. — Marathon Oil Foundation, Inc., announced a capital grant of $30,000, payable over three years, to the Wilberforce Tornado Relief Fund. The fund was organized to assist Central State and Wilberforce universities in reconstruction of campus facilities devastated by a tornado in April 1974.

A check for $10,000 was presented to Dr. Lionel H. Newsome, Central State president, and Dr. Rembert Stokes, president of Wilberforce, by Charles W. Shanfelt and John J. Schwepke of Marathon Oil Company. Similar gifts will be presented to the fund in both 1976 and 1977.

Marathon's association with Central State and Wilberforce also includes involvement in a Cooperative Work-Education Program. The program provides two Central State and three Wilberforce students annually with job and classroom training in the fields of computer science or accounting. Students selected for the program are business majors interested in specializing in those fields.

The Marathon Foundation has administered grants totaling over $10 million on behalf of Marathon Oil Company since being established in 1953. Foundation contributions are given to a variety of organizations located where Marathon Oil has operations and affiliations. These groups include education, community funds, welfare, and youth agencies, as well as medicine and hospitals.

Lucky Buck Extended Ten Weeks

Robert S. Malaga announced that the sale of Lucky Buck tickets would be extended for another ten weeks, through September 25. The September 25 date would mark the date another bonus drawing would be held.

"The reason Lucky Buck ticket sales have been extended, Malaga explained, "is that we have improved our weekly sales by an average of 1,669,290 tickets per week over the preceding week of May 8th when Lucky Buck tickets were not on sale. "This is an approximate $7,000,000 in revenue we have added to the Lottery over the ten week period."

"The ticket sales have improved to a far greater degree than we had originally anticipated," said Malaga. "It was originally thought that the sale of 50c tickets would drop dramatically, rather they have dropped by a small percentage," Malaga concluded.

MELVIN T. TAYLOR has been appointed to the post of General Sales Manager, Northeast Region, for the Sealest Foods Division of Kraftco Corporation, based in Camden, New Jersey and moving into what is described as the highest level of sales management at Sealest in the Northeast Region. Taylor will be responsible for overall supervision of Division sales and marketing programs in that area. Immediately prior to his latest appointment, he served as Marketing Services Manager at Sealest's National Headquarters Office in Philadelphia.

REUNION - Former Ohio State star defensive back John Hughes recently visited his old coach, Woody Hayes, at St. John Arena. Hughes wanted Hayes to meet Betty Penn, who has been as helpful in getting him started as an employer relations representative for the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services.

JOB BANK - John Hughes, Columbus District Mgr. Ralph Hammond and Fred Ferguson, manager of Job Bank at the Columbus office of the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services, look over one of the classified listings for job openings for job applicants to check out at the Columbus office. Hammond is a former track star at Ohio State and was captain of the 1942 squad, Western Conference indoor and outdoor champions.

DISCUSS JOBS - One of Hughes' assignments is to discuss job openings with employers and how OBES CAN HELP THEM WITH JOB PLACEMENT. Here he talks about jobs with officials of Educator and Executive Insurance Company with headquarters in Westerville. From left are: Dr. R. M. Masek, director of Employment and Professional Employment; Eunice Richards and Yvonne Cade, both personnel interviewers.

Miller time

If you've got the time, we've got the beer.

Be a big bad brother.

Who'd you look up to when you were a kid? Jackie Robinson? Louis Armstrong? Joe Louis? General Chappie James?

Whoever it was, chances are it was a big, bad brother. Someone who made you feel Black was beautiful. Someone who made you feel you could make it, too.

Now it's your turn. You're getting your high school diploma and heading for college. You're taking dead aim at the kind of thing that'll be best for you - but more - you want the kind of thing that can also stretch the freedoms and opportunities of your community.

Well, there are a lot of people from your community in our community. The Air Force community. And we need more people like you. We want you as an Air Force Officer who can be looked up to.

And make it, in our community - you can - through the Air Force Academy. There you'll receive the best education you could possibly get anywhere - free of charge - and even get paid while you're at it.

You'll be graduated as a commissioned Officer in the United States Air Force - with a great career, good pay and super benefits ahead of you. And you don't just keep your identity. You expand it. Make it stronger to your brothers in your community. More recognized by those outside of your community.

So if you are between the ages of 16-21 take the first two steps. First, send us the coupon. Second, check with your guidance counselor about application procedures.

Look up. Be looked up to.

The secret of finding what you want when you want it, is knowing where to look!

At U.S. Steel's Lorain/Cuyahoga Works, our people know exactly where to look—when they need any spare part replacements for their equipment.

We call it "Central Spares"—four big storage areas containing everything from 25-ton gear assemblies to 1/4" patch bolts. With storage racks up to 20' high.

George Shagovac, Supervisor-Spares in the Maintenance Department, helped originate and organize "Central Spares" and is now responsible for the smooth running of this vital service.

"When people want a spare part, they want it fast," he said, "and that's where 'Central Spares' can be helpful. With the aid of our computer, we can quickly locate any one of 28,000 different items!"

"Central Spares" is proving to be a big help in speeding up mill repairs and replacements. This, in turn, helps us be even more productive in giving the best service to our customers.

At United States Steel, we're involved.

Columbus Plan Has 2326 New Applicants For Fall

New applicants for the Columbus Plan totaled 2326 as of June 6 according to figures released Monday to the CALL-POST by the Columbus Public Schools.

The figure is 1449 higher than the new applicant figure for 1974 (877) and increase of 165 percent.

Racial balance transfers showed the largest percent increase, going from 67 to 412, a 515 percent increase. The board of education voted to provide transportation for racial balance transfers for the first time earlier this year.

Non-vocational education program transfers increased from 453 to 919, and vocational program transfers increased from 312 to 958.

At the elementary level, 315 of 490 new applicants are applying for the new alternative programs. The informal program at Indiana Elementary has 194 new applicants, the traditional program at Stewart Elementary has 76 new applicants and the individually guided education program at the Linden Park Developmental Learning Center has 45 new applicants.

New applicants at the senior high level totaled 1395 while the figure at the junior high level was 441. Broken down according to race, there were 960 whites and 1386 non-whites listed.

A Directory of Programs and Services available within the Columbus Public School system has been prepared to provide a single source of accurate, up-to-date information for students and parents.

The Directory lists 162 different programs in areas ranging from adult education to work permits and including such programs as arts impact, early entrance testing, Columbus Plan, school lunch, gifted, language development, home tutoring, Project Move Ahead, etc.

It was prepared by the Comprehensive Educational Planning and Evaluation Project, funded by a federal grant.

The Columbus Public Schools, Department of Adult Education, will offer courses in small business management training and mass merchandising for adults 17 years of age or older and not enrolled in a regular school. The courses will be held at the adult Education and School Services Center, 52 Starling St.

The small business management course, offered in conjunction with the Small Business Administration, will be held five days a week, Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon, July 1-31. Course content will include record keeping, basic management functions, advertising, human relations, display, inventory control and communications.

The Mass Merchandising program will be held five days a week, Monday through Friday, from 12 noon to 4 p.m., June 30 - July 25.

Course content includes drills on modern cash registers, mechanics of the cash register and learning experiences related to a variety of tasks performed by retail employees.

There is no charge to participants. Information concerning registration may be obtained by calling the Department of adult Education, 225-2840.

The Department of Instruction of the Columbus Public Schools has prepared a brochure on the new Columbus Gifted/Talented Program.

Two From Columbus Chosen On State Fair Committees

Fair Committees

Crissi Roberts, 19, and Robert Cannon, 16, both of Columbus, have been recently chosen to committees on this year's Ohio State Fair Junior Fair Board.

Crissi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Josh L. Roberts, attends Ohio State University and was named to the Office Management Committee, representing Ohio's Junior Achievement organizations.

Crissi was the 1974 Ohio State Homecoming Queen and also attended the Rose providing information about the program, a listing of academic challenges now available to Columbus students and plans for the future.

Who'd you look up to when you were a kid? Jackie Robinson? Louis Armstrong? Joe Louis? General Chappie James?

Whoever it was, chances are it was a big bad brother. Someone who made you feel Black was beautiful. Someone who made you feel you could make it, too.

Now it's your turn. You're getting your high school diploma and heading for college. You're taking dead aim at the kind of thing that'll be best for you - but more - you want the kind of thing that can also stretch the freedoms and opportunities of your community.

Well, there are a lot of people from your community in our community. The Air Force community. And we need more people like you. We want you as an Air Force Officer who can be looked up to.

Be a big bad brother.

And make it, in our community - you can - through the Air Force Academy. There you'll receive the best education you could possibly get anywhere - free of charge - and even get paid while you're at it.

You'll be graduated as a commissioned Officer in the United States Air Force - with a great career, good pay and super benefits ahead of you. And you don't just keep your identity. You expand it. Make it stronger to your brothers in your community. More recognized by those outside of your community.

So if you are between the ages of 16-21 take the first two steps. First, send us the coupon. Second, check with your guidance counselor about application procedures.
